$5.2 million raised for quake victims

LOS ANGELES — Some of the Hispanic celebrities who helped raise more than $5.2 million for earthquake-devastated Mexico had difficulty keeping their minds on their work during a 12-hour benefit telethon. They were thinking of loved ones still missing in the disaster.

"I know already that I have grandparents and cousins in the earthquake zone," singer-actress Apollonia Katero of the film "Purple Rain" said Sunday.

"It's killing me not to hear from them. The show and the work are secondary to me right now."

But the show went on. And stars like Ricardo Montalban, Julio Iglesias and Vikki Carr raised $5.29 million in United States alone by the time the telethon ended at 10 p.m. PDT.

Totals from the other countries where the program was shown would not be immediately available, spokesman Steve Moya said. Demand prolonged the telethon an hour longer than scheduled.

"People wanted to get on and the phones were ringing," Moya said. "We just couldn't complete it in time."

With the theme "Mexico, Estamos Contigo" ("Mexico, We're With You"), the upbeat show featured song and dance from performers in studios in Los Angeles, San Francisco, New York, Miami, San Antonio, Texas, and Phoenix, Ariz. The money will be sent to the Mexican Red Cross to set up clinics and to buy medicine and food, American Red Cross spokeswoman Mitzi Rodriguez said.

Madison man hurt in blaze

A 52-year-old Madison Heights man was treated for cardiac arrest, burns and smoke inhalation after he was rescued from a fire that he may have deliberately set to his house Saturday night, police said.

Bobbie Frank Brummitt, taken from the burning home at 861 East Dallas shortly after 11 p.m., was rushed to Detroit Receiving Hospital's burn center for treatment.

Sgt. George Beaudoin of the Madison Heights Fire Department said Brummitt went into cardiac arrest in the hospital's emergency room but was revived.

Detective-Sgt. Bernard Michrina said neighbors reported seeing Brummitt carry personal belongings and a gasoline can from the one-story residence. The neighbors said Brummitt re-entered the house seconds before an explosion occurred, Michrina added. He was living alone at the house.

"The entire house was engulfed in flames," Michrina said. "There was an explosion to the back where windows and debris were blown out."

An arson investigation team entered the house after Madison Heights District Judge Robert J. Turner authorized a search warrant, Michrina added.

Beaudoin said damage to the home was estimated at $20,000, and $7,000 to contents.

Michrina said Brummitt, separated from his wife for about one year, recently had been served with divorce papers. The house had been for sale, he added.

Soviets to unveil new arms offer

By The Associated Press

GENEVA, Switzerland — Soviet negotiators met with their U.S. counterparts today to discuss space and defensive weapons, and said they would outline a new arms control proposal at a later general meeting of negotiating teams.

Emerging from the session at the U.S. arms control offices, Soviet negotiator Yuri A. Kvitsinsky indicated that the Soviets would make their new proposal at a session between all six principal negotiators.

Kvitsinsky heads the Soviet team negotiating space and defense weapons, one of three areas of the U.S.-Soviet arms control talks. Max M. Kampelman, the chief U.S. delegate to the talks, is in charge of the corresponding U.S. team.

Asked by a reporter when the Soviets would present their new proposal, Kvitsinsky said, "15 hours," apparently referring to the time the afternoon session was scheduled to begin.

The special session will be attended by the full U.S. delegation, led by Kampelman, and by the team of Soviet negotiators headed by Viktor P. Karpov.

The Soviet proposals were outlined to President Reagan by Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze in Washington on Friday. U.S. reports said they call for reducing both superpowers' offensive nuclear weapons systems by 50 percent.

Strict secrecy was maintained regarding today's arms negotiations, in keeping with an agreement reached after the talks on strategic missiles, medium-range nuclear weapons and space and defensive systems began March 12.

Reagan welcomed Shevardnadze's proposal, but said he hoped the fine print will be "free of preconditions."

Until now, the Kremlin has insisted Washington give up plans to develop space-based missile defenses, commonly known as "Star Wars," as a prelude to agreeing on any limitations on existing arms.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz said the plan presented by Shevardnadze signified a "change" in the Soviet position.

MSU inaugurates new president

John A. DiBiaggio was officially sworn in as Michigan State University's 17th president during inauguration ceremonies Sunday.

About 2,500 people, including four former Michigan State presidents, were in attendance as DiBiaggio took the oath administered by university board Chairman Malcolm Dade.

DiBiaggio joined the university July 1 after serving as president of the University of Connecticut.

"He's only been here three months and people already think he can walk on water," joked Gov. James Blanchard, who joined other political leaders at the ceremony.

At least 10 killed on state roads

State police today reported at least 10 were killed in weekend traffic accidents on Michigan roads.

Lydia Dziarski, 59, of Dearborn died about 3:43 p.m. Saturday when the car she was driving was involved in a broadside accident on U.S. 12 in that community.

Stephen P. Parsley, 34, of Milford died about 3:05 p.m. Saturday when his motorcycle ran off a road in Livingston County's Brighton Township.

Robert W. Stone, 31, of East Detroit died about 1:37 a.m. Saturday when he was struck by a car while walking on Gratiot Avenue in Macomb County's Erin Township.

Former champ wants belts back

Former heavyweight boxing champion Leon Spinks wants to recover the title belts he captured by defeating Muhammad Ali in 1978 but lost on the auction block, his manager says.

"They are important to me," Marv Haupt, manager of Spinks' personal affairs said Sunday. "More than that, they are very important to Leon."

Items ranging from Spinks' underwear to his punching bag and gloves were auctioned off Saturday night. Jack Hall of Hall's Auction Sale in Lake Orion said Spinks' belongings sold for about $5,000.

Spinks has fallen on hard times since he dethroned Ali in 1978. Spinks currently fights out of the Kronk boxing stable in Detroit.

Foster parents fight state policy

A white Dearborn Heights couple is challenging the state policy on adoption and foster care as racist.

James and Margaret Quinn of Dearborn Heights claim that the state Department of Social Services removed a 2½-year-old black child — identified only as C.H. — from their home after 14 months and placed him in a black foster home because the Quinns are white.

The Quinns and the Committee to End Racism in Michigan's Child Care System Inc. filed the lawsuit last week in U.S. District Court in Detroit.

The suit challenges as racially discriminatory and unconstitutional the DSS policy which places children in foster and adoptive homes primarily by race.

Bailey's lawyer says suspect lineup unfair

By The Associated Press

HOWELL — The lawyer for a suburban Detroit man accused of abducting and killing a 13-year-old boy says his client's appearance in a police lineup tainted testimony from potential witnesses.

Ronald Bailey, 26, of Livonia, is charged with kidnapping and murder in the death of Shawn Moore of Brighton. The youngster disappeared Aug. 31, and body was found Sept. 13 near Gladwin. Bailey was arrested in Florida the next day.

Attorney Charles Murphy said he will challenge potential testimony from witnesses who appeared at a police lineup and identified his client as the man they saw with the Moore youth before the boy's disappearance.

"They (prosecutors) were told if they insisted on holding a lineup they could but that to go ahead was to proceed at their own peril," Murphy said. "Well, they did. Now we're going to do what we have to. And that's get them (the witnesses) disqualified."

Bailey was being held in the Livingston County Jail and has been ordered to undergo psychiatric evaluation at the Center for Forensic Psychiatry in Ypsilanti pending a preliminary hearing in 53rd District Court in Howell.

State hiking taxes Tuesday

Bargain booze ends today

By The Associated Press

LANSING — Two tax increases on liquor this week sparked spirited buying sprees and some complaints that the liquor industry's tab is high enough.

"Tavern owners are hollering, 'Ouch,'" said Rod Brown, executive director of the Michigan Licensed Beverage Association. "There's no question they have to increase the price of drinks."

Both a new state tax and a federal tax increase will be imposed on liquor Tuesday.

The state tax is 4 cents on each dollar spent on a drink or a bottle. The federal tax, imposed on wholesalers' inventory, is increasing from $10.50 to $12.50 per 100-proof gallon of liquor.

People who buy their booze at a store will see higher prices right away.

A fifth of Michigan's most popular vodka, Popov, will cost $6.22, up 90 cents; while a fifth of the state's best-selling whiskey, Kessler's American Blended, will cost $6.76 — an extra 95 cents, state officials said.

"We're selling out of a lot of brands," said Ron Robbins, owner of Kap'n Keg liquor store in Traverse City. "People who buy two of the biggest size want to buy six."

Business last week was about 25 percent above normal, and most customers seemed to be buying larger sizes than usual, Robbins said.

Bars and restaurants, which have the option of passing along the new taxes to customers or taking smaller profits, also stocked up.

Larry Oaltam, manager of Magoo's in Grand Rapids, said he bought an extra 120 cases of liquor, saving $500.

"I ordered (extra) on my two main movers, probably a three-week supply of Popov vodka and Canada House whiskey," Oaltam said.

Magoo's won't pass along the higher taxes, he said. "We raised our prices after Labor Day. We knew this was coming up but we wanted them more for the liquor liability insurance. It went up three times."

The Liquor Control Commission stocked an extra 100,000 cases of liquor for last-minute buying sprees by retailers and restaurants, said commission aide Ken Wozniak.

The new tax will help expand Detroit's Cobo Hall with money amassed from Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. In the rest of the state, the proceeds will return to the counties where they were collected.

Other state taxes on liquor are a 1.85-percent tax for substance abuse programs, and three 4-percent taxes: a sales tax, school aid tax and supplement to the general fund.

'Job applicant' may have been burglar, say police

By LESA DOLL

Tribune Staff Writer

A Highland Park man who initially told police he had been locked in a Troy office building while applying for a job was arrested Thursday in connection with what police say was a foiled burglary attempt.

Ricardo Benson, 33, was charged with entering a building without breaking with the intent to commit a larceny, a five-year felony.

Troy Police Lt. John Knechtges said detectives are looking into numerous other similar cases involving burglaries of computers and office equipment in the area.

Benson was charged only in the Thursday incident.

"He told the officer he had been locked in the building since he had gone into the building to inquire about a janitorial job," Knechtges said. "That story doesn't hold water."

Police responding to a security alarm call at 6:52 p.m. Wednesday at Votrax, 1394 Rankin, rang a back doorbell to gain entry to the building.

Knechtges said the suspect — perhaps believing the ring was a signal from an accomplice to open the door — answered the bell and launched into a lengthy explanation of his presence in the building when he saw the police officers.

He then told the officers he found the front door unlocked and had gone back into the rear of the building to look for someone.

Knechtges said there was no evidence of a break-in. Nothing was reported missing.

He said a number of buildings in industrial areas scattered across the city have been burglarized in recent weeks. There were no signs of forced entry into those buildings either, he said.

"This individual was in an industrial area, and the office part of this building did have that kind of equipment in it," Knechtges said.

"We have been losing some computer equipment out of businesses and in many of those there has been no sign of forced entry. It's a situation where the equipment is there at closing time," Knechtges said. "The building is locked and when the owner and employees enter the next morning, the equipment is gone."

State paid $1 million for peaceful prisons

LANSING (AP) — Picnics and concerts were among the luxuries enjoyed by Michigan's 15,000 prison inmates this summer as the state spent nearly $1 million to maintain calm in its overcrowded prisons, a published report says.

Prisons using a supplemental appropriation paid for such things as special meals, athletic equipment, concerts, movies and installation of handball courts and ice machines.

2 share in Lotto jackpot

LANSING (AP) — Holders of two tickets will split a $3.6 million jackpot after matching the six numbers drawn in the latest Michigan Lotto game, state lottery officials say.

A Sunday computer check of 4.6 million plays found two winners matched the numbers 2, 7, 14, 23, 28 and 39 in Saturday's drawing, said Lottery Commissioner Michael Carr.

The two winners each will receive $1.8 million with an initial payment of $91,526 followed by annual payments of $90,000 through the year 2004, Carr said in a statement.

Wednesday's Lotto jackpot will be worth at least $1 million, Carr said.

Keeping up with the nation...

Americans households on the rise

WASHINGTON — Americans are setting up households at a brisker pace than the nation's overall population is growing, according to a new Census Bureau report. The population grew 4.2 percent between 1980 and 1984, while the number of households jumped 7 percent, the study released Sunday said.

A key reason for the shift in living arrangements is the trend toward an older population in the nation.

U.S. won't give up 'Star Wars'

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State George Shultz and a top Pentagon official say President Reagan won't give up "Star Wars," even though the Soviets are reportedly offering to cut their nuclear missile forces in return for limits on the U.S. research project.

"The president is not going to give it up," Shultz said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Family planning program under attack

WASHINGTON — The government's family planning program, linked by some conservative opponents to abortion clinics, is under attack in Congress from abortion foes who hope to end the birth control counseling program by year's end.

The congressional authorization for the family planning program technically expires today. While both supporters and opponents say it will survive at least six weeks longer because of a stopgap bill, they continue their quarrel over a long-term renewal.

Two added to FBI's wanted list

WASHINGTON — Richard Joseph Scutari, characterized as a white supremacist who took part in a multimillion-dollar armored truck robbery last year in California, today was put on the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" list.

Also added to the list was David Jay Sterling, 40, a native of Vancouver, Wash. Sterling, a convicted rapist, is being sought in connection with his Feb. 28 escape from a mental institution in Steilacoom, Wash., the bureau said.

Fire damages National Marine lab

SANDY HOOK, N.J. — Researchers at the National Marine Fisheries Laboratory are moving ahead with their work after a fire destroyed most of 25 years of irreplaceable data on ocean life and up to $500,000 worth of equipment.

Peter Berrien, a specialist in fish eggs and larvae, lost 25,000 vials of eggs, most on loan from foreign laboratories.

Oil cleanup could take months

CLAYMONT, Del. — A spill of more than 400,000 gallons from a Panamanian tanker was one of the largest spills ever on the Delaware River and will take several months to clean up, officials said.

The oil slick stretches 15 miles from where the 761-foot Grand Eagle ran aground late Saturday near Claymont, on the Pennsylvania border. It was expected to reach the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, 17 miles away, by tonight, said U.S. Coast Guard Capt. Edward Roe, captain of the Philadelphia port.

Crash that killed 16 skydivers probed

JENKINSBURG, Ga. — A single-engine plane packed with 16 parachutists that crashed shortly after takeoff killing the pilot and all of the passengers had been grounded two days earlier by federal inspectors because of contaminated fuel, officials said.

It was not known if the problem had been corrected before Sunday's fatal flight or if it could have caused the crash, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said.

Patient dead before bus-ambulance crash

CINCINNATI — A 102-year-old woman already had lost her heartbeat when the ambulance rushing her to a hospital was hit broadside by a tour bus, paramedics told police.

Thirty-nine people were examined at hospitals after the Sunday morning accident, and all but one, in good condition, were released, hospital spokesmen said.

Spectators hurt in grandstand collapse

TECATE, Mexico — At least 120 people waiting to see American matador Raquel Martinez were injured when temporary bleachers of a bullfight ring collapsed "like a deck of cards," authorities said.

Tecate Fire Chief Luis Villa Vicencio said there were no deaths in the collapse at 5:15 p.m. Sunday of stands erected two days earlier for the city's seventh annual Pamplonada festival. He said up to 150 people may have been hurt.

Quebec moves away from independence

MONTREAL — The Parti Quebecois chose Pierre Marc Johnson to replace Rene Levesque as premier of Quebec and party chief, sealing the party's shift away from the quest for independence for the province.

Johnson, justice minister in the Parti Quebecois government, trounced five opponents in the party election Sunday in Quebec, a predominantly French-speaking province of about 6 million people.

Six seek Royal Oak commission seats

By CHERYL BELLER

Five newcomers and one incumbent will vie for three four-year Royal Oak city commission seats on Nov. 5. Another newcomer and a city commissioner will challenge Mayor Barbara Hallman for a two-year mayoral post.

Mayor Pro-tem Robert F. Stocker, 31, and James R. Bean, 59, have filed petitions for the two-year mayoral term.

Meanwhile, Commissioner Linda Shadrick has decided not to seek another term.

Shadrick, 47, said she will not seek re-election so she can devote more time to charity and volunteer efforts.

"I've enjoyed working with the commission and I'm going to miss it. But it is so time-consuming," Shadrick said.

Vying for the three commission seats are incumbent Kenneth E. Culling, and newcomers Patrick F. Feeney, Michael J. McClory, Fred I. Pieper, Nancy A. Pirslin and Francis D. Riley.

Hallman has served two four-year terms as city commissioner.

"I feel with experience and background, I can continue to serve the community," said Hallman.

"Royal Oak is perceived as the place to be — you can sense the excitement in the community through cultural aspects as well as in industry, commercial and the business community."

"I'm in a unique position because I can work with different segments of the community and accomplish what they'd like to do in Royal Oak."

An engineer and district sales manager for NTK Cutting Tools, Southfield, Stocker is finishing up a four-year term as city commissioner.

He was named mayor pro-tem after garnering the highest number of votes in 1981 when he ran for commissioner.

"We need a mayor who can address basic needs in the city, one who is accessible to the community and business people," he said.

"We need the type of leadership which has not only a good business sense, but we need someone with the ability to foresee needs of Royal Oak for today and the future, and also a mayor who can stay open-minded about the issues at hand."

Bean, owner of Bean Overhead Door Co., has been a frequent commission and city administration critic.

"I have been very distressed about handling of the budgeting process, shuffling money around the city," said Bean.

"We need to hold the line on taxes."

Commission candidate Culling, 62, is owner of Almond Auto Parts, Royal Oak.

"With the four years I've served, I've learned a great deal and have a great deal of experience to bring to the commission table," said Culling.

"I think sometimes commissioners serve too long but I don't think eight years is too long."

Feeney, 24, is an auditor for Allied Auto Supply Co., Madison Heights. He's seeking a four-year commission post because he believes "we need more accessible city government and we need to readjust our priorities."

McClory, 27, is an attorney in the Trust Department of Citizen's Bank in Flint.

'We need ... someone with the ability to foresee the needs of Royal Oak for today and the future, and also a mayor who can stay open-minded about the issues at hand.'

— Robert Stocker, mayoral challenger

"I've been active in government through high school, college and law school. I see no reason to stop," said McClory.

"With my organizational skills, I can be an asset to Royal Oak and help government run as efficiently as possible."

Pieper, 62, retired last year as director of physical education and athletics for Royal Oak schools.

Pieper is seeking a commission seat because of his "interest in Royal Oak and community affairs ... I'm a long-time resident and interested in Royal Oak."

Pirslin, 32, is an attorney currently employed as an assistant to Wayne County Executive William Lucas.

"I'm living in Royal Oak and helping in a county I don't live in. I enjoy working with government. I've been intrigued with it," she said.

Riley, 53, is a systems and procedure analyst for General Dynamics in Center Line. In 1956, as a Madison Heights resident, Riley unsuccessfully challenged George Horkey for that city's new mayoral post. He served two years on the Madison Heights Board of Review.

Riley said, "I don't like decisions made in the recent past in Royal Oak and I can do a better job."

"When a small group of homeowners come before (the commission), they just kick them in the pants. They are only concerned about what's good for the whole city and not for the little guys in town."

House probe into prisons will likely result in parole reforms

By The Associated Press

LANSING — A state House panel will begin probing the Michigan Department of Corrections and the entire prison system this week, and leaders say legislative action to solve parole problems is likely.

House Speaker Gary Owen has ordered a "thorough investigation" of the agency by the Corrections Committee, on the heels of stories in a Detroit newspaper that chronicled parolees who committed new crimes and were returned to prison.

"There are problems through the whole system, and we need to do something concrete about it," the Ypsilanti Democrat said.

The week-long newspaper series studied Michigan parole policies and detailed errors that led to early release of inmates who then committed more crimes. The articles focused on the "good time" system of rewarding inmates with credits that cut substantial — and critics say undeserved — time from prison terms.

Rep. Floyd Clack, D-Flint and chairman of the committee, said he hopes to have a report for the legislature in about a month.

"Some of what was in the series was a rehash. But there are some areas where we need legislation," Clack said.

Corrections Director Robert Brown is slated to appear before the panel on Tuesday.

On the House floor, action is expected on legislation creating an "auto lemon" law to help buyers of new cars or pickup trucks with defects that cannot be fixed. The bill sets up a procedure under which owners can sue for a refund or replacement if unsatisfied with the manufacturer's arbitration.

Proposals also on the agenda would let township supervisors and village presidents perform marriages; permit the court admission of "hearsay" evidence told to others by children involved in child sexual abuse cases; and allow surplus farm products from prison-run facilities to be donated to soup kitchens.

In the Senate, a 22-bill package aimed at the liability insurance cost crisis will be introduced this week.

Spielberg looking for the real thing

From AP Reports

Filmmaker Steven Spielberg, creator of one of America's favorite celluloid aliens, said he financed $100,000 worth of improvements in an antenna searching for signs of life beyond Earth because "it's time to get involved in science reality." Spielberg, whose movie credits include "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" and "E.T.," which featured the lovable homesick alien of the same name, flicked a switch with the help of his infant son, Max, to activate the antenna Sunday. The 84-foot communications dish marks an escalation of such efforts by The Planetary Society, which scans the skies for signs of life from its Oak Ridge Observatory in Harvard. "It's the most sophisticated search for extraterrestrial intelligence in human history," said Carl Sagan, the popular science writer and president of the society, who also attended the dedication. "I can't write the outcome of this," said Spielberg. "I just hope that there is more floating around up there than Jackie Gleason reruns."

CHANGED WOMAN: California feminist Ginny Foat says proceeds from her new book about her acquittal two years ago of murder charges will help pay the $250,000 she owes in legal fees from the trial. Foat, former California president of the National Organization for Women, said her life had not been the same since the trial stemming from the 1965 slaying of a man outside a bar where she was a go-go dancer. "I'll never recover from it. I still wake up at nights, sometimes afraid to open my eyes, afraid at the bottom of my bed it's going to have bars," Foat, 44, said in an interview to promote her book, "Never Guilty, Never Free."

POPCORN FAN: If Paul Newman can sell spaghetti sauce, oil baron Cliff Barnes can publicize popcorn, reasons actor Ken Kercheval, who plays J.R. Ewing's arch-enemy on "Dallas." Kercheval has bought a one-third share of the Old Capitol Popcorn Co., saying he wanted an investment and "I sure didn't want it to be condos." In a publicity coup, the actor has arranged for "Dallas" members to eat Old Capitol popcorn during an episode of the CBS series in December.

STREET FUN: The City of Angels may be known for its miles of highways, but its eighth annual Street Scene Festival lured up to 1 million people to meander through the weekend carnival and see actress Morgan Fairchild, pop star Stevie Wonder and comedian Joan Rivers. Fairchild was grand marshal of a Sunday parade that kicked off the final day of the fair launched Friday night with an invitation-only gala featuring Donny Osmond singing his new song, "L.A. Street Scene."

PACIFIC DREAM: Actress Glenn Close hasn't been hungry for work lately — not with two movies in back-to-back release and a Broadway play opening this season — but what she'd really like to do is star in "South Pacific." Right now she's on the publicity circuit for her new movies, "Maxie," a comedy that opened last week, and "The Jagged Edge," a courtroom drama opening Friday. Then, there are lines to learn for "Benefactors," a new comedy scheduled to open on Broadway in December.

Oops! Japanese sell the world's best cars

For the fifth year in a row, Japanese cars have captured the honor of being the "best built" cars sold in America.

The ratings were done by automotive engineers — experts who are expected to know more about a car than the average person.

Following the Japanese were cars made in West Germany and Sweden, in that order. American cars finished fourth in the poll, ahead of British autos and those from France.

We are well aware that a large number of lawmakers believe that the American auto industry ought to be given some protection from the Japanese.

That's seen as a retaliatory measure to punish those nations which export their cars to this country while barring the gates to American products.

As we have said before, the current trade arrangement — especially with the Japanese — isn't fair. We believe a freer, fairer trade agreement is in order.

Still, we agree with President Reagan's assessment that protectionism, in the long run, would both hurt American consumers and result in lost jobs.

We believe the auto companies domiciled in the United States can build cars every bit as sound as those offered by the Japanese. We also believe, as do the experts, that they have yet to do it.

We aren't impressed by spurious arguments that tight-fisted Americans are "buying Japanese" largely because the cars are cheaper. The fact of the matter is they aren't.

Some Japanese cars have heftier price tags than Lincolns and Cadillacs.

It seems to us that the surest way to make American products more attractive is to make them better.

Fortunately, the American automakers are moving in that direction.

Still, a major source of irritation among buyers of American products involves dealer service.

Shoddy dealer service is enough to undo the automakers' best planned public relations program.

The experts tell us Toyota is the car needing fewest repairs with second place going to Mercedes-Benz.

Some suggest that American auto executives, insulated from repair problems, need a first-hand look at the problem before it will be solved.

After all, a top executive doesn't take his car in for repairs. It's washed, gassed up and kept in top shape by company employees while he or she attends to business. If a major mechanical problem is discovered, a replacement car is ready and waiting.

That prevents the person who can make a difference from learning the true extent of the problem.

We believe such an education would go a long way toward putting the American automobile back where it belongs — at the top of the experts' list of quality products.

What's the value of a human life?

How much is a life worth?

That's one of the toughest questions juries are asked to deal with.

There are several standards by which a monetary value is placed on a human life.

Actuaries, with their tables on life expectancy, often provide a basis from which to measure the amount of wages a victim would have earned if he or she had not suffered an untimely death. From there, sometimes a value is inferred.

Last week, an Oakland County jury said the widow of a man killed in a highway accident was entitled to receive $300,000 from the drunk driver who caused the accident.

But Southfield attorney Noel Gage, who represented the widow, said the amount was "woefully inadequate."

Gage, who is the husband of Oakland County Circuit Judge Hilda Gage, said he was "looking for a realistic appraisal of a 24-year-old man who was a husband and the father of two children."

We wonder where Gage expects to find that realistic appraisal.

While we don't suggest he is out of line in his assessment, neither are we willing to second-guess the jury.

We note, however, that no matter how much money is offered, there will be those who can advance compelling arguments that the amount is insufficient.

Few would be willing to trade their lives for $1 million, or any amount, for that matter. Does that mean life is priceless? There's a good case to be made for that supposition.

Life is indeed precious. We value it highly. It may well be above and beyond any price.

Nevertheless, that cannot prevent juries from attempting to compensate survivors for what often is a terrible tragedy.

Thankfully, they usually are equal to the task.

Nostalgic judge offers praise

Recently, my wife and I had the opportunity to attend the opening of the new Baldwin Theatre at which the Stagecrafters presented the "Music Man."

For an old "Royal Oaker," it was a most proud moment. Having previously attended movies at the Washington Theatre, including the Saturday morning matinees, it was a moment of nostalgia. My congratulations for a most pleasant evening.

I commend the City of Royal Oak and the several supportive organizations, with particular appreciation to the National Bank of Royal Oak, Dobie Jewelers, The Daily Tribune and, of course most importantly, the very talented people who make up the Stagecrafters.

I would urge all who live in and around Royal Oak to take the time to enjoy an evening with the Stagecrafters in their presentations.

Their move to the Old Washington Theatre is clearly an enhancement to the cultural growth of our surrounding communities.

Again, my congratulations to the successful production of the "Music Man" and your future success.

Stop the flood of 'junk' mail

Why is it that a few years ago a mailman was penalized for putting Christmas cards, unstamped in each of the mailboxes he serviced, yet we continue to be bombarded with junk mail that is enclosed, unstamped in our daily newspaper and which, in most cases, goes directly in the trash can.

Why shouldn't these merchants pay postage to somewhat offset the high cost of our stamps?

U.N. readies for big birthday bash

By O.C. DOELLING
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS — Workmen on scaffolds busily scrape away at decades of soot and corrosion on the aluminum and steel framework of the 39-story United Nations headquarters building on Manhattan's East Side.

They are preparing for this fall's 40th anniversary celebration to be attended by 90 or more world leaders. U.N. officials hope the jamboree will help polish up the tarnished image of an organization that, even its supporters concede, has largely failed in its primary mission — to silence the guns of war.

In the words of President Reagan, "the reality has often been less than the dream."

Military analysts have counted some 300 civil and regional wars in the four decades since the end of World War II. Terrorism has carried the conflicts well beyond the war zones in the form of hijackings, bombings, assassinations.

Much of the time, the U.N. Security Council, conceived as the premier peacekeeping body, has been paralyzed by super-power rivalry. In recent years, the Third World majority has turned the 15-nation council into what former U.S. Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick described as a "Turkish bath" — a place to let off steam rather than to resolve conflict.

Not that the United Nations has been without successes. They include: — The peacekeeping and observer operations in the Congo, Cyprus, the Indo-Pakistani frontier and the Golan Heights. — The World Health Organization's eradication of smallpox. — The life-saving missions of the U.N. Children's Fund and the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees in Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. Both agencies have won Nobel Peace Prizes.

— The rescue of such treasures of antiquity as the Egyptian temple of Abu Simbel through the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

— The development efforts of various agencies such as the World Bank, the International Civil Aviation Organization and the International Maritime Organization.

But, as Secretary of State George P. Shultz has said, "These successes have unfortunately been matched by many failures."

To its detractors, the United Nations has become an ineffective talk shop and paper mill with a swollen bureaucracy. Conservative critics, like the Heritage Foundation, regard it as a nest of Soviet spies.

"The problem with the United Nations," Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar has concluded, "is that it's not used or is misused by member countries."

American disillusionment has mounted steadily since 1960 as more and more colonies gained their independence and joined what previously had been a Western-oriented body. From an original 51 members in 1945, the organization has grown to 159 — 125 of them developing nations.

The United States had encouraged decolonization after World War II, expecting the newly independent states to share Western values. But Americans, like Shultz, came to recognize that "the swelling ranks of non-democratic nations in the United Nations have diluted the original consensus that gave meaning to the charter."

Daniel Patrick Moynihan, U.S. ambassador under President Gerald Ford, called the General Assembly, which opened its 40th session on Sept. 17, a "theater of the absurd."

Personnel Director Fred H. Tholen, whose job it is to get bids on the cars, leans to a bright blue hue like the color of state police cars. He thinks it may be possible to have two-tone for detectives.

But Police Chief Ray C. Haward prefers black.

The actions came after a member of the Royal Oak Beautification Council proposed saving the school for use as a museum.

...at the world

Today is Monday, Sept. 30, the 273rd day of 1985. There are 92 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

Thirty years ago, on Sept. 30, 1955, actor James Dean, star of the films "Rebel Without a Cause," "East of Eden" and "Giant," was killed in the collision of his sports car with another automobile near Cholame, Calif. He was 24.

On this date:

In 1630, the first execution in America took place as John Billington was hanged in Plymouth, Mass., for fatally shooting John Newcomin.

In 1777, the Congress of the United States, forced to flee in the face of advancing British forces, moved to York, Pa.

In 1946, an international military tribunal in Nuremberg, Germany, found 22 top Nazi leaders guilty of war crimes.

Ten years ago: Spanish Premier Carlos Arias Navarro denounced international protests over the execution of five terrorists and called on the Spanish people to unite behind the government.

Five years ago: Iran's spiritual leader, the Ayatollah Khomeini, rejected a truce call from Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, saying war between the two countries would continue "to the end."

One year ago: Italian police continued their roundup of organized crime suspects, described as one of the largest operations of its kind ever conducted.

Today's birthdays: Former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox is 70. Actress Deborah Kerr is 64. Actress Angie Dickinson is 53. Singer Johnny Mathis is 50. Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., is 49. Singer Marilyn McCoo is 42. Former White House Press Secretary Jody Powell is 42.

Is Reagan's presidency just a blip or a legacy?

By W. DALE NELSON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — To President Reagan, nearing the end of his fifth year in Washington, his administration is "the dawn of the Second American Revolution." To Democrat Clark Clifford, a fixture in the capital since the Truman administration, it's "a blip on the screen."

As the president struggles with Congress over taxes, trade and deficits, not only liberals like Clifford but some of his fellow conservatives are questioning the boasts of Reagan's backers that his presidency will work long-term changes in American political life.

Others, on university campuses as well as in government offices, agree with his supporters and say his conservative stamp will endure into the 21st century just as the legacy of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal has dominated much of the 20th.

Reagan laid out the grounds for the debate when he declared in his second inaugural address that "we are creating a new America." He has repeated the theme often, as when he rallied a crowd in Oshkosh, Wis. on May 30 to support his tax revision plan and said, with Lincolnian phrasing, "Let us resolve here today, during this, the dawn of the Second American Revolution, that this great task shall be accomplished."

Reagan booster Faith Ryan Whitley, before she left her post as head of the White House Office of Public Liaison to become ambassador to Switzerland, said, "This presidency is having the most profound effect on the political landscape since FDR. We've changed the whole direction of this country."

More recently, White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters, "There's no doubt that President Reagan has changed the direction of thinking about how government should do business."

Maybe so, say some, but how long will the change last?

Clifford, a Washington lawyer who was counsel to President Truman and served as secretary of defense in the Johnson administration, said in an interview, "If he is able to carry on in his second four years as successfully as he did in the first four years and if he pursues his major goals, then I think he will have accomplished a profound change in the political climate of the country. My own private idea, however, is that it is not likely to occur."

"I consider it a blip on the screen," he said. "You have read electrocardiograms. It just goes along with a steady vibration and then you come to an era where for a number of years you get an entirely different tracing. I think that's what's going on now."

Clifford predicted Reagan will run into trouble between now and 1988 because of a downturn in an economy plagued by a huge budget deficit and a growing international trade deficit.

"To a great extent, the popularity of Ronald Reagan depends upon the economy," he said. "The bloom is going to go off the rose and then I think people are going to say, 'Oh, oh, this isn't what he claimed it to be at all.'"

Clifford, of course, speaks from the perspective of a liberal steeped in the New Deal tradition.

"I come from that kind of background," he said. "I thought we were going in the right direction."

From another perspective, Edwin J. Feulner II, president of the conservative Heritage Foundation, wrote in an assessment of Reagan's first term, "Not all the old problems have been solved, and some have not even been tackled. More important, policies must be fashioned to ensure the continuation and permanence of the Reagan revolution."

In an interview, Burton Pines, vice president and director of research for the foundation, said Reagan "managed in his first four years to absolutely win the argument that government must be smaller, that government cannot continue to grow inexorably, and I think that is going to continue and that's a legacy that is going to last for certainly as long as the Roosevelt legacy, which is that government can do everything."

But Pines said Reagan will face a milestone if Congress, as many expect, sends him an over-all spending bill for the coming fiscal year that fails to meet his budgetary goals.

"If he signs it reluctantly or whatever, I will say that he has failed a major test and maybe his legacy of leaving a significantly smaller federal government will not be as strong as it might have been," he said.

Reagan insists he will veto any "budget-busting" appropriation bills but he has already accepted a budget framework that, while it cuts some domestic programs sharply, does not eliminate any, as he had proposed in several cases.

"If you simply pare down a program, they can decide later to increase it," Pines said. "If you actually eliminate it, it's a lot harder to start it all over again."

James David Barbour, a Duke University expert on presidential character, struck a similar note, saying, "I think obviously there has been change. But we still have a Department of Education; we still have a Department of Energy" — two departments Reagan came into office pledging to abolish.

"My sense is that radical change in the American political order among the population is probably going to happen only in the face of a severe social trauma that I don't see on the scene," said Barbour. He said Roosevelt, taking office in the depths of the Depression, "had going for him an enormous social disaster."

A different view was presented by two Cornell University professors, Martin Shefter and Benjamin Ginsberg, in a paper presented at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in early September.

They noted that the Reagan administration has stemmed the flow of federal funds to legal service agencies, appointed conservative legal scholars to the federal bench, captured a majority of the Senate, built a strong political fund-raising apparatus and presided over five years in which Congress has not enacted a single new major domestic spending program.

"Uncertain as they may be," the two political scientists argued, "the prospects for an enduring realignment in American politics are stronger today than they have been for at least a generation."

Questions linger about Reagan's general health

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The White House is being deliberately vague and secretive as questions persist following President Reagan's cancer surgery.

There was a brief period in which the 74-year-old patient's doctors and spokesmen attempted to answer practically every question put to them about Reagan's condition following his surgery for colon cancer on July 13.

But in the weeks since, the doctors have been incommunicado, and presidential spokesman Larry Speakes has simply refused to disclose any details about what are said to be normal post-operative tests.

Recently, when Reagan returned to Bethesda Naval Hospital for what were described as routine followup exams, Speakes and other officials would not say what the tests were or disclose their outcome, other than to report Reagan's recovery from surgery was "100 percent complete," and whatever tests were done produced normal results.

It would have been easier to accept such assurances had it not been for the widespread misinformation White House officials let stand for nearly a week after Reagan had a small skin cancer removed from his nose.

But when asked this week for an explanation of his brief written statement and whether that indicated doctors found no recurrence of cancer, Speakes said, "The statement is just going to have to stay right where it is."

Pressed to be more specific, the spokesman continued to refer to his written statement.

"All the tests were normal, and what you see on the piece of paper is what you get," he told reporters.

Asked why he wouldn't release a list of the tests that were done and the specific results, as the White House has done in the past when Reagan has had regular physical checkups, Speakes would say only, "This is the way we prefer to do it."

"Can you be more specific than that?" he was asked.

"No," he replied. But when asked if he would reveal evidence of a recurrence of cancer, the spokesman said, "Yes, we would. Sure."

It is understood from sources close to President and Mrs. Reagan that the spokesman has been instructed to keep mum.

Mrs. Reagan complained that as "a doctor's daughter," she didn't like all the second-guessing by other physicians that followed her husband's surgery.

But a short time after ward, both she and the White House physician, Dr. T. Burton Smith, misinformed reporters by denying the small growth on Reagan's nose had been biopsied to determine whether it was cancerous.

The growth, Reagan himself later revealed, was a basal cell carcinoma, the most common and easily curable form of cancer.

Ronald Reagan surrendered some of his rights to privacy when he sought the nation's highest office. He acknowledged that by releasing medical information about himself at the time, and he agreed to make public his and his wife's federal income tax returns while he holds public office.

When the president was seriously wounded in an assassination attempt two months after taking office, his staff never questioned the necessity of providing regular updates on his condition to an anxious nation.

By reasserting his privacy claim after his recent brush with a potentially life-threatening disease, the second deadliest form of cancer, Reagan and his spokesman only guarantee that questions about the president's health will persist.

SIMON SAYS

by Dr. John M. Simon

It's flea season

August, September and October are the flea season months and I am sure that a great many of you readers are right now in the middle of a full scale battle to rid your pet and your house of fleas. It is definitely no exaggeration to state that fleas are a major threat to the general welfare of your pet. Fleas can undermine your animal's good health and comfort in several ways.

To begin with, flea bites are extremely irritating both to the animal and the unfortunate owner that may be mistaken for his pet. The intensely itchy wounds result in excessive scratching and become portals of entry for secondary bacterial infections. It is important to understand that some animals are more sensitive than others to the flea bite. These pets are actually allergic to the flea's saliva and therefore suffer severe itching and discomfort from the mildest of infestations.

Another way that fleas undermine your pet's good health is by acting as transmitters of tapeworm eggs. In turn, tapeworms may produce a state of malnutrition and reduce the animal's general resistance to other disease threats.

Lastly, since fleas live on a diet of blood which they suck from their victims, a heavy or prolonged infestation can produce anemia and weight loss in the parasitized animal.

To rid your pet and house of fleas, you must first understand the life cycle of the enemy. Contrary to popular opinion fleas spend most of their time off the pet. They jump on the animal in order to get a good blood meal and then quickly jump off to lay eggs in the pet's bedding or the furniture, rugs, floor cracks, and grass. These eggs are literally indestructible and hatch within one to four months. This is why it is very important to continue treating your pet for 3-4 months even after all signs of the flea infestation have disappeared.

Flea eradication requires the destruction of fleas both on your pet and in your home. Treating your pet at three-day intervals with effective flea dips, sprays, and powders obtained from your veterinarian will usually suffice. For long haired pets or pets with severe infestations an oral prescription medication, "Proban" is available from your veterinarian.

Ridding your premises of these nasty critters begins with a thorough vacuuming of rugs, floors and furniture. Promise sprays or flea bombs should be used next. The newer more effective flea bombs available at most veterinary clinics are capable of killing both the reproducing adult flea and the developing flea larvae and have a residual effect that lasts for months. Remember — there is no available product capable of destroying the flea egg.

When using flea medications there are a few precautions to observe. First, carefully read the product label since many medications which are safe for adult dogs can harm cats and very young pups. Next do not indiscriminately apply several different flea products to your pet since such irresponsible applications could result in serious toxic reactions and even death. Avoid these hazards by allowing your veterinarian to advise you on the most effective capable flea products and by carefully following his instructions on how to safely and successfully use these.

Dr. Simon is a graduate of the Michigan State University School of Veterinary Medicine, and has his practice at the Woodside Animal and Bird Clinic, Royal Oak.

Ann Landers

PERSONAL ADVICE

Dear Ann Landers: You and Dr. Karl Menninger are right: Our prisons ARE a disgrace, and it is very difficult to get the movers and shakers of this world to do anything about it.

The John Howard Association, a Chicago-based, nonprofit, prison reform agency, was formed in 1901 to fight that laissez-faire attitude. Like our namesake, an 18th-century British sheriff, we aim to change the inhumane living conditions inside prisons.

In prison, the strong prey on the weak, the violent brutalize the nonviolent. Many decent, if errant, human beings emerge hopeless, embittered and eager to "get even." Society — all of us — pays the price, in more crime and greater fear. This system is doomed to fail and must be drastically overhauled.

We have a distinguished, dedicated board of directors that includes a former governor, many judges, present and former legislators, and business men and women. Your occasional columns on our prison mess give heart to this hardworking group. It makes us proud to be in the same company as Dr. Menninger, Chief Justice Warren Burger and yourself. We will continue to work for reform until the system is changed. Sincerely yours — Michael J. Mahoney, Executive Director, The John Howard Association

Dear Michael Mahoney: Thank you for your letter. And now I'd like to say a few words to my readers.

With Mr. Mahoney's letter came a pamphlet telling me about the history and goals of the John Howard Association. It was not a pitch, no hard-sell, but after I read it I knew I wanted to be a member. So I joined.

A prison system that fails to rehabilitate inmates and simply punishes them is a failure. Year after year we continue to release angry and hostile people who are more dangerous than when they went in.

Organization fights for humane prisons

An excellent way to reduce crime and make the world a safer place is to support an organization like this one. Anyone who is interested can write to: John Howard Association, 67 East Madison Street, Suite 1216, Chicago, IL 60603.

Dear Ann Landers: Your response to "Temporarily Disconnected" was off the wall.

Using a phone answering machine for a private home is snobbish and inconsiderate. It says to people, "You'll have to make an appointment to speak to me. I'll call you at my convenience, if I choose."

Callers have to pay for getting connected to the machine. I don't blame the sister who telephoned long-distance for getting angry. If the party at the other end also had an answering machine and wasn't at home, the charges could go back and forth indefinitely without a single conversation taking place.

I have told friends who have answering machines that I will not call them anymore. If they wish to keep in touch, they can call me. — Gripped In Glen Ellyn

Dear Gripped: Don't be surprised if you don't get many calls. You sound stubborn as a Missouri mule. Answering machines are vitally important to many people whose home or business phone cannot be manned around the clock. A machine message can change the course of a person's life.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send $5 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

HOUSEHOLD HELP

DEAR HELOISE:

I would like to tell you a very sad story that goes hand in hand with your rescue alert stickers. If it makes just one person stop and think, it will be worth my tears in writing.

Last month, just two blocks from my home, a baby died of smoke inhalation. The fire was almost nothing to speak of — it was put out with two buckets of water — and yet a baby is dead. You see, there was no smoke alarm!

Please, Heloise, tell your readers to run, not walk, to get a smoke alarm. If they already have one, they should check the batteries regularly!

This may be a matter of life or death for your loved ones. Please take it seriously! — No name please

I couldn't agree more!

Smoke alarms are now very inexpensive, so several (depending on the size of the home) should be placed near potential danger areas such as utility rooms,

Smoke alarms save lives hallways, hot water heater closets, kitchen area, etc. The peace of mind they afford overwhelmingly outweighs the small cost per unit. — Heloise

Send a great letter to:

Heloise
P.O. Box 32000
San Antonio, Texas 78216

HINTS FROM HIM

Dear Heloise: When a page in the check record has been filled, cut or tear off the lower right corner of the page.

This makes it easier to find the current page of the record. No more flipping pages to post a check. Especially nice when you are in a hurry — at the grocery store, for instance. — John Rees

I paperclip the pages and only have to flip once.

SEWING NOTIONS

Dear Heloise: I use an ice cube tray for sorting and storing buttons. This makes the ones I need easier to find.

Also, after opening rickrack, bias tape, etc., I wrap it around an empty toilet paper roll. It doesn't become tangled or creased.

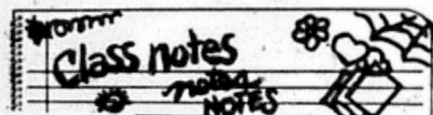

Another handy thing I use is a cribbage board for holding spools of thread. Simply put in the pegs and place the spools on them. Easy to see at a glance the colors on hand. — Kay Kelly

CEREAL PRIZES

Dear Heloise: When I buy boxes of cereal with little prizes or toys, I save them and give them out to trick-or-treaters at Halloween.

The kids love them and no worrying about candy. — Sandy

Better start now! Halloween's almost here! — Heloise

A FINE TIME AT SHRINE: Royal Oak Shrine High will celebrate Homecoming at 8 p.m. Oct. 4, with a football game against Dearborn Divine Child. Halftime activities will include a parade of floats and the crowning of the homecoming queen, king and courts.

The school is also sponsoring its annual College Day from 8:15-10:30 a.m. Oct. 8. Representatives from 45 colleges and universities from Michigan and other states will distribute material and applications and answer questions.

M.D. plans stop smoking program

Arthur Weaver, M.D., professor of surgery at Wayne State University will sponsor a program on how to stop smoking beginning in October at the Troy Adventist Academy, 2777 Crooks.

The event will begin with a session, "Preparing to Quit," on Oct. 9; plus six stop-smoking sessions conducted Oct. 14-18 and 23. All sessions will be from 7:30-9 p.m.

Cost is $10 for the seven-part program. Registration may be made with the church, 643-6766 or Better Living Seminars, 882-7348.

VOCATIONAL FOOT PROBLEMS

QUESTION: What is the greatest source of foot problems?

ANSWER: Poor foot function can lead to a lot of difficulties — all kinds of strains, pulls, and irritations. Yet even perfectly functioning feet can be laid low by eight hours at the wrong kind of a job.

Jobs which require excessive standing and/or sitting can result in or precipitate circulatory foot problems. Unyielding surfaces such as concrete or asphalt tile can set off disorders in leg muscles, ligaments, and delicate foot tissue. However, rather than quit your job, a visit to the podiatrist can be a foot-saver. Minor injuries can be treated and proper footwear prescribed.

Class space is limited and reservations are requested by calling 588-8000, ext. 247, weekdays before noon.

Social activities increase, you become more aware of physical appearance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Major domestic adjustment is due. Lunar emphasis on travel, spiritual values, ability to communicate needs, ideas. Focus also on publishing, dissemination of information. Scorpio native figures in scenario.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be ready for change, travel, variety. You'll gain additional information concerning financial resources of others. Investigate tax, license requirements. Member of opposite sex is ready to become ally.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis on possible change of residence, legal affairs, public relations, marriage. Highlight diplomacy, realize you can win rather than force your way. Remember special anniversary, be ready to repay recent "favor."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Job gets done if you are willing to streamline methods. You could "wake up" with answers. Focus also on basic issues, pets, dependents, employment and health. Pisces, Virgo persons play significant roles.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Good lunar aspect highlights speculation, charisma, children, change, physical attraction. This could be your power play day! Emphasis on money, pressure, deadlines, responsibility and rewards.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Long-standing transaction can be successfully completed. Be confident, proceed accordingly. Spotlight on lifestyle, residence, dealings with older individuals, including parents.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): New approach may include short journey. Emphasis on trips, visits, ideas which can be transformed into viable concepts. You'll also get to heart of matters where romance is concerned. Leo plays outstanding role.

IF OCTOBER 1 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are creative, sensual, independent, sensitive and obstinate. Members of opposite sex are drawn to you, find you a fascinating challenge. Leo, Aries, Aquarius persons play important roles in your life. You are drawn to music, theater, you are inventive, original, and you seldom follow the crowd. Recent domestic adjustment will work in your favor. You currently are perfecting techniques, getting rid of superfluous material and defining basic terms. October will be memorable for you in 1985.

Health Advice

by Dr. Lester Coleman

Genetic counseling

My husband and I have been married for 5 years. My blood type is O-positive and my husband's is AB-negative. Is there any way to determine what blood type our children will be?

My husband's mother has some type of blood disease, and I am wondering about the advisability of having children at all. I am afraid the blood problems might be hereditary. We would appreciate any advice you could give us. — Mrs. C.W., N.C.

Dear Mrs. W.: Your interest in the possible blood types of your children has no value at present. When and if the children are born, their blood type can very easily be determined by simple techniques.

That which is more significant to me is that your husband's mother has some kind of "blood disease." You do not indicate in your letter exactly what it is. The modern study of hematology and immunohematology is so vast that many options are open to you. The first, and most significant, is that there are specialists in bio-genetics. They have at their command enormous resources by which they can suggest the advisability or the inadvisability of pregnancy. Dozens of bio-genetic tests are available to them.

In addition, these bio-genetic counselors are able to identify individuals with hereditary backgrounds for whom it would be inadvisable to have children.

These geneticists are able to determine abnormalities that may be present in the chromosomes of family members.

When parents or grandparents are found to have some chromosome deficiency, the risk to the newborn becomes apparent.

It is imperative that you seek such genetic counseling before embarking on family planning. Only in this way can you avoid the heartache and catastrophe of congenital diseases in your children.

My husband caught thrush. I thought this only happens to children. No one knows where he got it. — Mrs. R.K., La.

Dear Mrs. K.: It is true that thrush occurs more often in children than in adults.

Thrush is an infection caused by the fungus albicans. The mouth, tongue, palate, gums and tonsils become covered by a milky white film which sticks tenaciously to the surface.

Thrush seems to occur in adults who have been sucking on lozenges that contain antibiotics. The antibiotics in these lozenges upset the normal balance in the mouth between bacteria and fungi. Thrush and other types of fungus infections may then flare up.

The bidding:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 1NT Pass

Opening lead — queen of spades.
One of declarer's greatest enemies is complacency, which sometimes develops when, after viewing dummy, he yields to the "obvious" method of play.

Consider this deal where South is in four hearts. He wins the spade lead with the ace and it seems natural to lead a heart to the ace, planning to draw trumps and later discard a club on one of dummy's high diamonds for an overtrick.

But if declarer leads a trump to the ace at trick two, he goes down one.

After encountering the unexpected 3-0 trump break, the best he can do is play a diamond to the queen and East's ace. East then cashes a spade and shifts to a club. Declarer takes his A K of clubs and exits with a club.

However, when East takes the queen and returns a diamond, declarer, reduced to only trumps, has to ruff. He must then unhappily concede a trick to East's queen for the defenders' fourth trick.

Before playing a trump to the ace, however, a more cautious declarer will stop and ask himself what, if anything, might jeopardize the contract. After realizing that only a 3-0 trump division can defeat him, he would then channel all his thoughts toward guarding against that possibility. This, in turn, might lead him to the winning method of play.

To protect against the 3-0 distribution, the correct play is to lead a trump from dummy at trick two and finesse the jack after East follows low! If the jack wins, the battle is all over.

What if the finesse loses? In that case, the best West can do is cash a spade and lead a club. Declarer wins, draws a second round of trumps and concedes a diamond to the ace. After a club comes back, a low trump to the nine enables declarer to dispose of his club loser on dummy's high diamond and thus make the contract.

New arrival Support group for burn victims

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hepner (Nancy Richardson), Berkley, a 7 pound son, Scott Eric, at 8:41 a.m. Aug. 20, in William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak.

William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak offers adult burn victims a forum for sharing common experiences and gaining information to help adapt to a new life-style.

The support group will meet from 6-7:30 p.m. Oct. 16, at the hospital.

For further information call 288-8095.

Shortchanging Nichols is common for football fans

Fans boo, coaches yell. Fans wad up empty beer cups and toss knucklers at the field. Coaches stand on the sidelines and scream about knuckleheads.

Fans scream four-letter words. Coaches do X-rated dialogue. About all the grim players can do is bear it. The guys in the uniforms can't answer. Not really. The coach is their boss and the fans are their burden. Once in a long while, in frustrated retort, you'll hear a Joe Don Looney tell a Harry Gilmer to call Western Union if he wants a messenger boy.

Very occasionally, you'll see a one-finger salute or hear a muffled profanity aimed towards the bleachers.

Very rare indeed is the athlete who has reached wit's end who goes after a dim wit in the box seats. All an assault does is land a player in legal hot water. The only effective way for a jock to silence a jerk short of winding up in front of a judge and jury is to perform on the court or field.

Mark Nichols has heard the boos more than once. He's been called things his mama would never let him say. But he's never punched out a coach or a fan. Sunday afternoon, he helped the Lions knock out Tampa Bay.

The much maligned wide receiver stuffed sweat socks into the mouths of all those boobbirds by catching four passes. Nichols happened to be in the end zone when he caught two of them.

Water to wine, abuse to adulation. Nichols brought about the transformation by playing well.

"Sure it feels good," he said. "It's always good to get a chance to go out there and show what you can do."

That's the thing about Nichols. Since he was drafted No. 1 by the Lions out of San Jose State in 1981, he's been considered a guy who hasn't done much.

In his four seasons with Detroit, he's consistently been labeled an under-achiever, a player with absolutely no consistency.

The rap is he'll play well one game and then terrible the next. The word is, he'll have hands of Crazy Glue one day and granite the next.

His numerous critics have called him a dog, and they don't mean retriever. This season, the coaches have kept him on a leash. When he started against Tampa Bay in place of an injured Leonard Thompson, it was his first start all season long.

"I'm not upset, but it does get you down a little not to get much of a chance to play," Nichols admitted. "It hurt my confidence some. It got kind of discouraging."

He got his start and he made the most of it. The boos turned to cheers. The cold shoulder from the coaches evolved into pats on the back. Nichols was smiling after Sunday's game.

Everybody wants to be liked, or least accepted. It doesn't matter if you catch rivets or footballs. It doesn't matter if your uniform for work is Bill Blass or Honolulu blue.

But the fans are both the blessing and burden of a pro athlete. They pay his salary and they make him pay for mistakes. They adore and abhor him.

Fans pile out of the car and proceed to their frustrations. If a quarterback throws a crappy pass, they're ready and willing to unload on him. If a receiver drops the ball, he becomes the target of boos. If a defensive back gets burned, he's scorched by the abuse.

It's all part of the price of the ticket. It's like getting mustard with your hot dog. If the fans are paying the money, abuse is part of the cost.

So they let loose. They aim their abuse at the guy in the helmet, never figuring he has eyes and ears beneath it. They unleash their tirades, never stopping to think that the target is flesh and blood too.

Nichols is a target because he came in as a first-round draft pick surrounded by adjectives and expectations. Before he knew his way from San Jose, he was already going to be the passing game's equivalent to Billy Sims.

Well, Nichols never said that. He never claimed he was the equivalent of anything, excepting Mark Nichols.

'Mistakes' help Lions beat Bucs

'Somebody was in my corner today,' says lucky hero Demetrious Johnson

Lions defensive end William Gay was obviously a very happy man after his fourth-quarter sack of Tampa Bay quarterback Steve DeBerg.

Demetrious Johnson is not looking forward to watching the films of the Lions' 30-9 victory Sunday over winless Central Division rival Tampa Bay at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The camera undoubtedly chronicled the two big "mistakes" the strong safety made. Fortunately for Johnson and the Lions, they were mistakes which were turned into big plays and sent the slim crowd of 45,023 home happy.

With the Lions trailing 6-3 late in the first half and Tampa Bay marching toward the Detroit goal line, Johnson blitzed and sacked Buccaneers quarterback Steve DeBerg, forcing a fumble which William Gay recovered on the Tampa Bay 46 with 41 seconds left.

Helped by an offside penalty which wiped out a fumble by Lions quarterback Eric Hipple and a 35-yard strike from Hipple to Jeff Chadwick, Detroit scored with two seconds to go in the half on a four-yard slant-in pass from Hipple to Mark Nichols and took a 10-6 halftime lead.

"I was supposed to cover the tight end man-to-man but there was no one there to block me, so I went in," said Johnson. "When I got to the sidelines, I realized what I had done and Coach (defensive coordinator Wayne) Fontes reminded me about it."

After Tampa Bay took the second-half kickoff, the Bucs drove to the Lions' three and on third-and-goal, DeBerg flipped a pass to tight end Jerry Bell, who bobbled the ball and had it knocked away by Johnson.

Tampa Bay settled for a 20-yard field goal by Donald Igwebuike, the rookie's third three-pointer of the afternoon, to make it 10-9 and the Bucs never scored again. Meanwhile, the Lions' offense woke up and made Detroit's third victory in four games a lopsided one.

"I was supposed to cover the tight end (Bell) again but I didn't follow him when he went in motion until the last minute, when I didn't see anyone else (on the Lions' defense) moving," Johnson said.

"Somebody was in my corner today, and thank God for that," Johnson smiled. "I could have cost us two touchdowns."

Johnson also made his presence felt in the fourth quarter, without mistakes this time. He stripped the ball away from Bell, ran 24 yards and recovered his own fumble to set up the Lions' final touchdown, a one-yard plunge by Hipple.

And on Tampa Bay's final possession, there was Johnson again, coming up with an interception.

Another man in the spotlight for the Lions was Nichols, who hadn't caught a pass in Detroit's first three games and saw action in just six plays in the Dallas and Indianapolis contests.

Pressed into service because Leonard Thompson was hobbled by a strained hamstring, Nichols grabbed four Hipple aeriels for 35 yards and had his first two-touchdown game as a pro.

"Sure, this will help my confidence," said Nichols, who made diving catches on both TDs. On his second score, which came in the fourth quarter, Hipple was belted by Tampa Bay's Hugh Green just as he released the ball.

"Eric is supposed to throw the ball earlier, but he had to wait until I got past their zone coverage," Nichols said. "That's probably why he got hit."

Darryl Rogers, who won a personal battle of first-year coaches with Leeman Bennett of Tampa Bay, was happy he had a chance to take a look at Nichols.

"I'd like to play him more and throw him more balls to see what he can do," Rogers said.

Chadwick had his best game as a Lion, catching five of Hipple's passes for 98 yards before being sidelined by a bruised shoulder.

"Jeff has a lot of good attributes which people don't realize," Rogers said. "He has great quickness and a real feel for the ball. I think he can be an outstanding receiver."

Tight end David Lewis nabbed three Hipple aeriels for 71 yards including a 40-yarder in which he beat ex-Michigan

Wings sing the Blues

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Joe Mullen had a goal and an assist and Dennis Cyr added three assists to lead the St. Louis Blues to a 4-1 victory over the Detroit Red Wings in National Hockey League pre-season action Sunday night.

The Blues, who never trailed in the contest, also got goals from Jim Pavese, Ron Flockhart and Mike Prestige.

Detroit scored its lone goal at 8:00 of the third period when center Claude Loiselle's pass was deflected into the net by St. Louis defenseman Gilbert Delorme.

The Blues improved their exhibition record to 3-1, while Detroit fell to 2-1. The Wings will open the regular season Thursday, Oct. 10 at home against Minnesota.

Better late than never for Shrine

Royal Oak Shrine will go into the record books as the winner of Sunday's important Catholic League Double-A football clash, but Madison Heights Bishop Foley didn't walk away a loser.

"One of the things we wanted to do this year was gain respect for our program," said Ventures coach Ed Maloney after his team's heartbreaking 14-10 loss to Shrine.

"I think we won Shrine's respect after this game," he said.

That the Ventures did...and they came within 12 seconds of winning the football game, too.

Shrine quarterback Brian Horton sneaked over from inside the one-yard line on a fourth-down play with 12 seconds left to give the Knights their fourth straight victory overall and a 1-0 record in the league.

Horton's touchdown capped a march that started at the Shrine 20 after Foley took a 10-7 lead on a 43-yard field goal by junior Kent Fuson with 4:33 remaining in the game.

Fuson was pressed into service when the Ventures' regular kicker was bothered by a pulled muscle.

"He's a soccer player who has been our backup kicker," Maloney remarked.

Shrine mixed the passing of Horton with

Tigers' defense is shaky

By CHUCK KLONKE

Dr. Sparky Anderson has diagnosed the Tigers' ailment. The problem is finding the cure. "You can't play bad defense and win consistently," Anderson said Sunday after the Tigers made a pair of costly errors in a six-run third inning that carried the Boston Red Sox to an 8-4 victory before a crowd of 20,486 at Tiger Stadium. "You might win 80 or 85 games without playing good defense, but you can't expect any more than that," Anderson said.

The Tigers are dead last in the American League in fielding this year and the two errors Sunday raised their league-leading total to 142. "There's no quicker downfall than defense," Anderson continued. "It does so many things to you. It makes a pitcher have to get five or six more outs than he shouldn't have to get. Look at our earned runs. We've given up 662 runs and only 587 of them have been earned. Some stats are deceiving, but the errors aren't." Anderson said the Tigers' shoddy defensive play isn't a one-year phenomenon. "We were eighth in the league last year, but because we were winning it wasn't noticed as much," the manager said. "When you don't play good defense two years in a row, you're not a good defensive team."

Unfortunately, correcting the situation won't be easy. "You ain't gonna clean up bad defense," Anderson said. "The only thing you can do is get different people." That would involve a wholesale changeover. Detroit's defense at the corners of the infield has fallen far short of championship caliber. The two regulars are first and third — Darrell Evans and Tom Brookens — have combined to make 43 errors. Shortstop Alan Trammell and second baseman Lou Whitaker are considered Gold Glove caliber fielders, but they've been afflicted by the error epidemic, too. Trammell has committed 15 errors, while Whitaker has 11.

Chet Lemon has made only four errors in center field — three in the same game — but Kirk Gibson has 11 in right and leftfielders Larry Herndon and Nelson Simmons have 11 between them. "We play on an excellent field, too," Anderson said. "This is the best infield in the American League...without a doubt." "You can't hide a bad defensive player. They'll always find him," Anderson added.

The Red Sox found the Tigers' weak spots in the third inning when they sent 11 batters to the plate and scored six runs to overcome the 4-2 lead Detroit took in the second with a four-run outburst. Wade Boggs, who had four more hits to raise his league-leading batting average to .373, started the third with a single to left. Bill Buckner also singled to left, but Simmons let the ball get past him and Boggs raced home from first while Buckner took second. When starter Juan Berenguer, 5-6, walked Tony Armas, Anderson replaced him with left-hander Bill Scherrer. Scherrer got Rich Gedman on a fly ball for the first out of the inning, but wild-pitched the runners to second and third while pitching to Mike Easler. Easler, who also had four hits, punched a single to left to tie the score and Marty Barrett, given the green light on a 3-0 pitch, blooped a single over Trammell's head to give Boston a 5-4 lead. A single by Steve Lyons and Glenn Hoffman's sacrifice fly produced two more runs.

The final run of the inning came home when Brookens bobbled Dwight Evans' grounder to third. That was all the scoring for the Red Sox, who were blanked by Scherrer, Chuck Cary and Randy O'Neal over the last six frames, but it was more than enough because Boston rookie Rob Woodward kept the Tigers off the scoreboard after the second.

Boston jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the second when Berenguer walked Gedman and Easler drove a 3-2 delivery off the facing of the right field roof. Woodward, who was making his first major league start, walked John Grubb and Simmons with one out in the second. Lemon singled home the

Juan wasn't in control of Sunday's situation

By CHUCK KLONKE

The only consistent thing about Tiger righthander Juan Berenguer is his inconsistency. On his good days Berenguer can be devastating to the opposition. On his bad days, it's the Tigers who are devastated. Last Monday night, Berenguer was brilliant in beating the Red Sox 2-1. He allowed only four hits and one unearned run in his 7 1/3 inning stint. Sunday he faced those same Red Sox and was shelled before he retired a batter in the third inning. He gave up five hits, five runs and walked two in only two innings.

"When you have control problems, you're like that," said Manager Sparky Anderson. "Nolan Ryan's had that his whole life." "There's nothing in common with guys like that," Anderson added. "They're either very good, or you're going to get them out of there in a hurry." Berenguer has usually been at his best against the Red Sox. The defeat Sunday was only his second loss in seven decisions against Boston.

Tiger Notes

Anderson said he has excellent control and he knows what he's doing on the mound. Cary has given up only 15 hits in 21 2/3 innings while walking five and striking out 20. Boston third baseman Wade Boggs continues to have an outstanding season at the plate. His four hits Sunday, including two in a six-run third inning, raised his league-leading batting average to .373. Boggs has hit safely in 131 of his 155 games. The American League record is 133 by Al Simmons of the Philadelphia Athletics in 1925 and the major league mark is hit safely in 135 in 1930. Boggs' 233 hits are the most in the major leagues since Minnesota's Rod Carew collected 229 in 1977. His 182 singles are only two short of the AL record set by Kansas City's Willie Wilson in 1980. The American League leader in on-base average (.451), Boggs has reached base via a hit, walk or hit batsman 329 times, the most by a major leaguer since Ted Williams reached 358 times in 1949. Earlier this year Boggs broke the Boston record for hits in a season. The old mark of 222 was set by Tris Speaker in 1912.

The Tigers finished September with an 11-16 record. It's the first time since 1982 that the team has had two losing months in the same season. Detroit was 11-7 in April, 14-12 in May, 16-11 in June, 12-16 in July and 16-13 in August. It looks like rookie left-hander Chuck Cary has won himself a spot on the Tigers for next year. Cary has impressed Anderson in his 14 appearances since being recalled from Nashville in August. He pitched three scoreless innings Sunday, allowing three hits while striking out five. The only walk he yielded was intentional. "I've liked everything he's done out there," Anderson said.

'Mistakes' help Lions turn back Tampa Bay

Panthers star David Greenwood. Hippie, who was booed loudly at times early in the game when he was struggling, completed 19 of 31 passes for 250 yards in his best statistical outing of the season. He wasn't intercepted. "When I make a bad play, I expect it (booing)," Hippie said. "But when something else goes wrong... I didn't boo him," Rogers chuckled when asked about the fans' reaction. Another bright spot for the Lions' offense was running back Wilbert Montgomery, who ended up with 77 yards on 16 carries after gaining just 13 yards in the first half. "I'm beginning to get my feet under me and see the blocking develop," Montgomery said. "When you miss training camp, it takes a while to get back in the swing of things." As for the Lions' defense, well, it kept Tampa Bay out of the end zone and it wasn't hurt that badly by the NFL's leading rusher, James Wilder. Wilder posted his sixth straight 100-yard rushing game, gaining 104 on 27 carries, and caught seven passes for 57 yards but the Bucs gained just 277 yards.

and weren't able to put the finishing touches on a couple of long drives. "We came up with some new defensive schemes and they had trouble with them," said Fontes, who was a Tampa Bay assistant for nine years before coming to Detroit. The Bucs took a 3-0 lead in the first quarter when they had to settle for a 21-yard field goal after getting a first down on the Lions' three. Detroit got a break early in the second period when Leon Bright fumbled a Mike Black punt when he was hit by Ronnie Barnes and rookie June James recovered on Tampa Bay's 24. An Eddie Murray field goal from 22 yards made it 3-3. After Tampa Bay closed to 10-9 in the third quarter, a 33-yard field goal by Murray gave the Lions a 13-9 advantage and on the final play of the period, Murray booted a 39-yarder to put the Lions up by seven points. Two touchdowns in the final 15 minutes — the second pass to Nichols and Hippie's one-yard quarterback sneak — gave Detroit some breathing room.

Success costly for U-M

By CHUCK KLONKE

ANN ARBOR — Michigan is sure to move up a few notches when the college football polls are announced today, but the Wolverines may have paid a heavy price in getting there.

"I'd feel a lot better about this if I hadn't lost both starting guards," Coach Bo Schembechler said Saturday after Michigan's impressive 20-0 blanking of 17th-ranked Maryland.

Unless there's a miracle, they could be out for the season," Schembechler said. "Now it's back to the drawing boards."

Strong guard Mike Husar, a 6-foot-3, 278-pound sophomore, suffered a broken arm while quick guard Mark Hammerstein, a 6-4, 273-pound senior, left the game with an injured knee. The injuries occurred during the same drive, with about 10 minutes left in the game.

"Husar and Hammerstein are both meaningful guys," Schembechler said. "This will necessitate wholesale changes in the offensive line. This team will need great resolve, but it has displayed that before."

Schembechler's initial plans are to move center Bob Tabachino to quick guard while backup strong guard John Vitale takes over for Husar. "That will leave (Dave) Herrick and (Andy) Borowski to battle it out at center," Schembechler said.

The Michigan coach is hoping that sophomore guard Michael Dames, who has been sidelined by an injury for the last four weeks, will be ready to practice with the squad this week.

"If he can come back it will help a lot," Schembechler said.

The injuries to Husar and Hammerstein were the only things that dampened Schembechler's spirits after his team's third straight victory over a ranked opponent.

"Everybody seemed to think we weren't good enough to win these first three," he said. "A lot of people asked, 'What if you're 0-3 going into the Big Ten?'"

"I knew that wasn't going to happen," he said. "I figured if we won two of our first three games it would be a helluva start, but I knew we wouldn't lose all three."

Michigan's offense was evenly divided against the Terrapins. The 12th-ranked Wolverines had 191 yards on the ground and they passed for 196 as quarterback Jim Harbaugh completed 16 of 20 tosses. Two of them were scoring strikes to tight end Eric Kattus, who had six receptions for 81 yards. Kattus had caught only one pass in Michigan's first two games.

Defensive tackle Mike Hammerstein, who has been outstanding all season, said the improved play of the offense goes hand-in-hand with the improvement in a defense that hasn't allowed a touchdown in three games.

"The ability of the offense to control the ball is the biggest reason the defense has played so well," Hammerstein said.

"When they're able to sustain a long drive it gives us a chance to catch our breath on the sidelines and we have good field position to work with."

"It takes a lot of starch out of the other team when it has to start a drive deep in its own territory."

"It also gives us a chance to make some adjustments and think about what we have to do when we go back on the field," he continued. "When you have to go back out after four plays, you don't get much chance to adjust to what the offense is doing."

Maryland coach Bobby Ross had some high praise for Michigan's defense.

"I don't know if I've ever seen a quicker defense," Ross said. "Coming into the game we felt we could move the ball. Obviously, they've done one of the best jobs against us."

Their secondary is extremely good, possibly as good as the 1982 Miami defensive backfield, which is one of the best I've ever faced," Ross added.

Michigan opened the scoring in the first quarter on a 34-yard field goal by Mike Gillette and took a 10-0 halftime lead when Harbaugh fired a 10-yard scoring strike to Kattus early in the second period. Harbaugh hit Kattus with a three-yard pass after the Wolverines recovered a fumble at the Maryland two in the third quarter. Gillette wrapped up the scoring with a 25-yard field goal early in the final period.

The shutout was the first for Maryland since 1979 when North Carolina State blanked the Terrapins 7-0.

Michigan, which beat Notre Dame and South Carolina in its other two non-conference games, hasn't opened with three straight non-conference wins since 1978. It's also the first time since 1980 that the Wolverines have gone three straight games without allowing a touchdown. In each of those seasons, Michigan went on to the Rose Bowl.

When asked if Michigan should be cast in the role of favorite for the Big Ten title, Schembechler shrugged his shoulders and replied, "I don't know, we still have eight games to go."

"You can always look back to last year and see how easy it is to fall apart," he said. "My only concern is that we don't have the necessary depth to withstand a lot of injuries. We could have had a pretty good team last year, but we couldn't handle the injuries."

Michigan opens the Big Ten season at home this coming Saturday against Wisconsin.

October may not be festive for Spartans

By STEVE STEIN

TRIBUNE Sports Editor

EAST LANSING — Iowa, Michigan, Illinois, Purdue.

That's the lineup of Big Ten foes the Michigan State football team will face in October and if the Spartans continue to show as little promise as they have so far this season, it might be November before they win another game.

Even November's conference slate of Minnesota, Indiana, Northwestern and Wisconsin may prove to be too much.

The Big Ten plowed through its non-league schedule with a combined 25-6 record and it seems just about every school except Michigan State and perhaps Illinois — which was dismantled by Southern Cal and Nebraska — is entering the conference campaign with high hopes.

Nine Big Ten teams were in action Saturday and the conference posted an 8-1 mark with only Minnesota taking it on the chin. But the Golden Gophers gave No. 2 Oklahoma quite a battle before succumbing 13-7.

Michigan State is lucky to be sitting with a 2-1 record today after slipping past Western Michigan 7-3 Saturday in front of 63,829 stunned fans at Spartan Stadium.

The Spartans obviously didn't take their Mid-American Conference opponent seriously and the fired-up Broncos nearly pulled off a major upset.

"Offense — or more appropriately, a lack of it — is Michigan State's problem."

Against a Western Michigan defense that gave up 48 points to Army two weekends ago, the Spartans gained just 228 total yards and had 14 first downs.

Even though the Broncos feature an outstanding linebacker in third-team All-American and two-time All-MAC selection John Offerdahl, a 6-foot-4, 228-pound dynamo from Ft. Atkinson, Wis. who was in on 16 tackles, this was a defense Michigan State should have picked apart.

Freshman quarterback Bobby McAllister, whose obvious raw talent is being choked by his lack of experience, completed just six of 15 passes for 44 yards. He was sacked four times.

Only a last-gasp 80-yard drive, which was culminated by Lorenzo White's one-yard plunge with 2:07 left, prevented the Spartans from losing. That march was aided by a questionable pass interference call on the first play and White barely got into the end zone on his leap.

McAllister, a pleasant youngster who hails from Pompano Beach, Fla., called his performance against Western Michigan "mediocre."

Unfortunately for McAllister, he may not get much of a chance to work on that rollout decision in game situations if Dave Yarema is deemed fit to play against Iowa this coming weekend.

Michigan State Coach George Perles said after the Western Michigan game that Yarema, a junior from Birmingham Brother Rice who has missed the last two contests because of a broken thumb, will start against Iowa if the injury is healed.

Only the running of White is keeping the Spartans from being totally ineffective on offense. White gained 141 yards on 28 carries against Western Michigan, tying Eric Allen's school record of five straight 100-yard games which was set in 1970 and 1971.

White, a sophomore, has gained 438 yards in 98 attempts this year, most from a single-back set, but as he points out, his running isn't going to be enough for the Spartans to compete in the Big Ten.

"We've got to clean up our act," he said.

If it wasn't for its defense, Michigan State could very well be entering conference play with an 0-3 record. And this is a defense which is getting a lot of work because the Spartans' offense hasn't exactly been marching up and down the field.

Michigan State has had fewer first downs than its opponents in all three of its games this fall. Arizona State had 24 to the Spartans' 16; it was 19-11 for Notre Dame and Western Michigan won that statistical battle 18-14.

"I've got to come up with some answers for our offense," Perles admitted. "We're experiencing some serious growing pains."

"I'm sure the guys will hear all weekend how they almost were beaten by a MAC school, so it looks like I'll have to build them up Monday."

The only statistic that counts is the 'W.' I've got to dance away from the other statistics, but I'm getting to be a pretty good dancer."

Western Michigan Coach Jack Harbaugh won't have to dance away from any statistics today. After losing 17-0 to Northern Illinois and suffering a 48-6 blowout to Army, Harbaugh's Broncos came ready to play Saturday and almost recorded their first victory ever over a Big Ten team.

Through the years, Western Michigan is 0-11 against the Big Ten. Michigan State, by contrast, is now 12-2 against MAC teams but the Spartans haven't lost since they were defeated by Western Michigan in 1919.

Against Michigan State Saturday, the Broncos did not fumble or have a pass intercepted and didn't commit a penalty in the first half.

Family bragging rights were on the line Saturday at Michigan State when brothers Paul and Terry Bobbitt "collided." See Page 13.

A band aid for Lions

By JIM EVANS

Tribune Sports Writer

Hail to the Victors must be prophetic. The University of Michigan marching band has blasted out the school fight song three times already this season for the Wolverines and the team has responded by knocking off all three Top 20 opponents.

Sunday afternoon, the amazing blues brothers tooted a rendition for the crowd at the Pontiac Silverdome and look what happened: The Lions beat Central Division rival Tampa Bay 30-9.

Now why didn't Tom Monaghan think of that?

Pittsburgh has its steel mills. Philadelphia has its brotherly love. Hershey is sweet on chocolate and in College Park, they are enraptured with linebackers. College Park, the home of Penn State University, is a fertile breeding ground of excellent linebackers. It seems that every year, at least one is drafted by the pros.

Does Coach Joe Paterno have an assembly line somewhere hidden amongst the ivy? Maybe there's some genetic engineering being done in a biology class or two.

It's nothing quite so devious, maintains Kurt Allerman, a linebacker acquired by the Lions on Sept. 13 and a product of Penn State.

"The coaches give everybody who comes to Penn State a try at linebacker," said Allerman, who started at inside linebacker Sunday and made a couple of ferocious hits on Tampa Bay running back James Wilder early in the game.

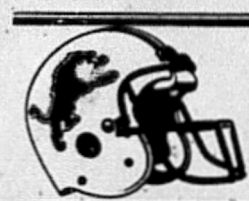

"It doesn't matter if you were a quarterback in high school. They want to see you at linebacker first," said Allerman, chuckling.

Paterno gets a lot of the credit for the linebackers, but it should go to Jerry Sandusky. He's the defensive coach and he's the man who teaches all the linebackers the fundamentals. He taught me a lot," said the nine-year National Football League veteran.

Just wondering: Do Ron Holmes and Kevin House live in condos? When the Bucs were ready to check out of the Northfield Hilton did the Bell boys, Jerry and Theo, have to tote all the luggage? Is it true Randy Graves is a dirty player? Did you know Leon's parents never had him take an IQ test...they already knew he was Bright. It's amazing how Ron Springs can bounce back from injuries.

Sunday marked a homecoming of sorts for Tampa Bay defensive back David Greenwood.

Greenwood was a first-round draft pick of the Michigan Panthers in their inaugural season. He moved with the team to Oakland, played with the Invaders this past USFL campaign and then signed with the Bucs.

Lion Notes

Greenwood started for Tampa Bay at the strong safety position.

Do the Lions miss Billy Sims? Would Ron miss Nancy? Would eggs miss bacon? Just how much the team misses the sidelined running back became evident when Wilbert Montgomery broke away for a 22-yard run in the third quarter.

That jaunt by the former Philadelphia Eagles standout was the longest by a Detroit running back this season.

Wilder is the Billy Sims of the Sunshine State. If he were to go down, the Bucs' anemic offense would die from malnutrition.

The 104 yards Wilder covered in 27 carries against the Lions marked the sixth consecutive game he has rushed for 100 yards or more.

"A running back like Wilder is going to get his yards," Lions noseguard Doug English said. "He was highest on our list of priorities."

Comments from the beaten Bucs, who are now 0-4: "We played a better football team today," said new coach Leeman Bennett, who is still looking for his first win. "They moved the ball well when they had to. I was impressed with them."

The key was that Detroit stopped us from scoring touchdowns," said quarterback Steve DeBerg. "We were down there. If we had come away with touchdowns instead of field goals, I believe the game might have turned out differently."

"It's always disheartening to get close and not score a touchdown," Bennett added.

Bennett was asked where the Bucs go from here. "I don't think there's anywhere to go," he replied. "We've still got our same 45 players. I wish I had a brown paper bag that I could reach down in and pull out some things, but I don't."

Lions Coach Darryl Rogers is happy with his team's 3-1 start, but he'd like a little more consistency. "We're up and down and that's not how I want us to be," he said.

Torin Dorn initials big win with three TDs

By JIM EVANS
Tribune Sports Writer

Would-be tacklers aren't the only things trailing Southfield's Torin Dorn these days. There are also plenty of laudatory adjectives on his tail.

The superlative senior struck for all three of his team's touchdowns to lead Southfield to a 20-14 victory over Ferndale Saturday in a battle between two unbeaten Southeastern Michigan Association football teams.

"Torin Dorn looks even more elusive down on the field than he does from up in the stands," marveled Ferndale Coach John Bassier, whose team had not allowed a touchdown going into the game. "He's just remarkable."

"He has the ability to shift gears and speeds so beautifully. He even had our kids doing it."

The trouble with trying to shift gears with Dorn is that when nearly everyone else is already at top speed, he still has overdrive left. Dorn, who took first in the 400-meter dash at the state Class A track meet last June, scored on runs of 17, 55 and three yards.

But, Dorn doesn't always need to find the end zone to draw more oohs and aahs than Susan Anton in a singles bar. That was the case during a run early in the fourth quarter, after Ferndale had pulled to within six points.

Following the ensuing kickoff, Southfield had the ball at the Ferndale 29-yard line. The ball was snapped and quarterback J. Jewett followed habit and gave the ball to Dorn.

Just when Bassier, Ferndale defensive coach Nick Midea and nearly everyone else figured the two defenders who had their hands on him seven yards behind the line of scrimmage would bring him down, Dorn rose to the occasion.

"One kid had him by the ankle. The other had him around the waist. He was heading left and suddenly, he pirouettes right. Instead of a loss, he runs for a 39-yard gain. It was like a nightmare," gasped Bassier.

Dorn's first touchdown came just a couple plays after Southfield's Jeff Cohen blocked a Ferndale punt. The Blue Jays, who are now 4-0 overall and 3-0 in the SMA, recovered the ball at the Eagles' 19-yard line.

"That block really hurt us. It came after we'd gotten one off but had lined up wrong and had to kick again. We hadn't had any problems with our punting game before," sighed Bassier.

Ferndale came right back with a 28-yard touchdown run by Mark Hammerle, who wound up with 114 of his team's 180 rushing yards.

Two plays later, Dorn scampered 55 yards to give the Jays a seven-point lead at intermission.

Dorn upped the ante in the third quarter when he scored from four yards out. Hammerle responded with a 19-yard touchdown run.

A Ferndale drive late in the fourth quarter ended at the Southfield 35 when the referees ruled tight end Stacy Davis fumbled after catching a pass from quarterback Matt Delph.

"Don't take anything away from Southfield. They're a good team," said Bassier, whose Eagles are now 3-1 overall and 2-1 in the SMA. "I think they are beatable, though."

Athens gets some revenge

By The Daily Tribune Sports Staff

The Troy Athens girls tennis team gave Fraser something to think about Saturday.

A couple of weekends ago, Fraser won the Sterling Heights Invitational and Athens finished third.

With revenge on their minds, the Red Hawks captured their own Athens Invitational this past weekend, beating Fraser in head-to-head matches in five of the seven flights including twice in the finals.

Athens and Fraser will clash again in a Class A regional tournament at Fraser Oct. 11-12.

"This certainly will help us in our seedings for the regional," said Athens Coach Warren Block.

The Red Hawks, who won championships Saturday in four flights — two singles and two doubles — scored 29 points, five more than runnerup Fraser.

Troy edged out one of the pre-tournament favorites, Grosse Ile, for third place, getting 21 points to Grosse Ile's 16. Lake Orion had eight points, South Lake seven and Mount Clemens and Royal Oak Kimball both notched six.

Here are the results of the championship matches:

Singles: Rosanne Caruso (Fraser) def. Heather Degroot (Athens) 6-1, 1-6, 7-6; Susan Stellan (Troy) def. Jill Mayer (Fraser) 6-2, 6-2; Sandy Sosnowski (Athens) def. Debbie Kolke (Fraser) 7-5, 6-3; Nadine Masai (Athens) def. Cheryl Hellner (Fraser) 6-2, 7-5.

Doubles: Ann deBoom-Amy Bryce (Troy) def. Kim Watrous-Jenni Darbee (Lake Orion) 6-1, 6-3; Lisa Taft-Laura Merritt (Athens) def. Jennifer Baker-Jenny Solt (Troy) 6-1, 6-2; Cindy Miller-Gigi Gulang (Athens) def. Julie Belamarie-Ann Vills (Grosse Ile) 6-1, 6-4.

Troy leaves Andover barren

By The Daily Tribune Sports Staff

Three games into the season, the only thing the Troy boys soccer team looked capable of kicking was the bucket.

The Colts lurched out of the starting gate. They opened with a victory over Southfield, then proceeded to lose to both Redford Catholic Central and Troy Athens, two strong teams.

But Troy has been resurrected. In its last seven games, including a 2-1 loss to Grosse Pointe North, the team has allowed just five goals.

The sticky defensive work included a 2-1 victory over Bloomfield Hills Andover Saturday. The win raised Troy's overall record to 7-3; they are 5-0 in the Southeastern Michigan Association.

Jeff Brown and John Phillips scored against the Andover Barons. Notching assists were Chris Standewick and Scott Miller.

Jim Heisler was in the goal.

In another weekend boys soccer game:

MADISON HEIGHTS BISHOP FOLEY 7, MOUNT CLEMENS CARDINAL MOONEY 0: The Ventures took another giant step toward their fourth straight Catholic League Double-A championship with this easy win Sunday.

Foley is now 9-1 in the Double-A with two games left (against Pontiac Catholic, a first-year team, and Royal Oak Shrine) and 11-2-1 overall.

Carlo Pertot, Greg Dante and Rick Bower all scored twice against Cardinal Mooney.

the running of Mike Eisenhower and Steve Quade as it marched toward the end zone. Quade made a diving catch at the one-yard line moments before Horton bulled his way into the end zone.

"They did what they had to do in that last drive," Maloney said. "They made some big plays. Our tackling was sloppy at times and they did some hard running."

"That was their most impressive drive of the game," he added.

Foley had one last gasp and didn't go down without putting a scare into the Shrine followers. The Ventures attempted a long pass, but it was tipped out of the receivers' hands by one of Shrine's defensive backs.

Shrine took a 7-0 lead in the second quarter when senior tight end Tom Cooney combined with Horton on a 19-yard pass play and Thom Damon kicked the first of his two extra points. The touchdown was the first score allowed by Foley this year.

Foley, which fell to 3-1 overall and 0-1 in the Double-A, tied the game at 7-7 in the third quarter when Greg Everly scored on a 16-yard run and Fuson booted the conversion.

The drive started when Foley recovered a fumble at its own 44-yard line.

"We're looking at this game from a positive standpoint," Maloney said. "We won't be as big physically as most teams we play, but we proved that we can stay with people by playing good sound football."

"Seeing how we come back from this one will be our first big test," Maloney continued. "Until now everything has gone our way. Now we'll see how they respond to this."

"It's a hard thing for 16 and 17-year-old kids to take, but they'll have to look ahead and learn from this game," the coach added.

Shrine had a total offense of 279 yards — 174 on the ground and 105 passing. Eisenhower picked up 93 yards in 10 carries, while Quade had 48 in 11 attempts. Horton was seven for 18 passing.

Foley had 180 yards rushing and 12 passing.

Defensive standouts for Shrine were Quade, who had a key sack. Horton and Dan Orlovski, who had interceptions, and tackle Thomas Hacette.

Maloney also lauded a pair of his players.

"Sean Tierney played an outstanding game at offensive guard and defensive tackle," the coach said. "He led our sweep and on defense controlled his side. He forced Shrine to either run to the left or to trap him."

"We also had a great game from junior linebacker Matt Zgliczynski. He was the mainstay of our defense. He came alive during practice last week and continued to play like that today."

Shrine's next test is against powerful Dearborn Divine Child, the top-ranked team in Class B in several high school polls. The game is the Knights' homecoming and will be played Friday night at Royal Oak Kimball.

Foley will attempt to bounce back from its first loss when it plays at U-D High on Saturday.

Both will be Double-A contests.

Foley sets the pace for Shrine harriers

By The Daily Tribune Sports Staff

Royal Oak Shrine's boys cross country team staged its own version of Follow the Leader when it scored an impressive victory Saturday in the Fennville Invitational.

The leader in this instance was Shrine junior Tim Foley, who took individual honors on the three-mile course with a time of 15:59.

"We always hope our first man runs a decent time and the next four are bunched together within a minute," said Knights coach Lou Miramonti.

Shrine's runners followed that bit of strategy to the letter — or the second, as the case may be.

Shrine's fifth runner, Richard Mackie, came across the finish line in 16th place, exactly one minute off Foley's winning pace.

Shrine wound up with 42 points while Mattawan, which was second in the 15-team field, had 83.

It was the Knights' first invitational win this year and the first individual championship for Foley.

Dave Chomet was fourth overall in 16:36.

Kevin Smith, sixth, 16:40, and Tim Smith, 15th, 16:58. Other Shrine runners who finished were Brian Bell, 23rd, 17:24, and Eric Meerschaert, 43rd, 18:09.

Foley took the lead at the mile mark and finished about 10 seconds ahead of his closest challenger, a runner from Mattawan.

"It was a pretty fast course — only one hill — so the times were pretty good," Miramonti said.

The Knights entered one runner in the girls division and Sheila Carmody finished eighth with a clocking of 19:38.

Rice Warriors take first scalp...finally

The Birmingham Brother Rice football team finally got on the sunny side of a scoreboard.

After spending their first three games in the scoring shade, Coach Al Fracassa's Warriors finally found the light.

Brother Rice opened play in the Catholic

League Central Bracket Saturday with a 28-10 win over Harper Woods Notre Dame. It was the first victory for the Warriors in four games. Notre Dame fell to 2-2.

PANTHERS ON THE PROWL: The Troy Panthers boys under-14 Bonanza League soccer team is off to a good start with three victories and one tough loss in its first four games.

After defeating the Troy Falcons 10-1, Ann Arbor Flames 5-1 and Genesee Star 8-0, the Panthers lost a narrow 1-0 decision to Livonia Vardar III.

The game against Vardar featured two of the best under-14 boys teams in the state and the spectators weren't disappointed.

With five minutes left, a Vardar shot hit the crossbar and went in.

The midfield play was outstanding with Larry Knox and Brad Blackwell doing the job for the Panthers. Fullback Mark Roberts and goalie David Armstrong also played well for the Troy team.

Against Genesee, John Farley scored three goals. Rob Ferguson and Joel Russell each added two and Tyrone Schindler had the other tally. George Khalifa, John Deveja and Blackwell had assists.

It's all Rochester, MSA

By The Daily Tribune Sports Staff

It was a clean sweep for the Metro Suburban Association and its top team, Rochester, in the annual Southeastern Michigan Association vs. MSA cross country meet Saturday at Royal Oak Kimball.

The boys from the MSA nipped the SMA 27-28 and the MSA girls triumphed 25-30. There are eight schools in each league.

The Rochester boys team, which is ranked fourth in Class A, was the winner of that division with 48 points.

The Falcons were followed by Rochester Adams (MSA) with 74; Troy (SMA) with 82; Hazel Park (SMA) with 144; Bloomfield Hills Andover (SMA) with 150; Kimball (SMA) with 152; Troy Athens (MSA) with 183; Southfield-Lathrup (MSA) with 212; Bloomfield Hills Lahser (MSA) with 251; Birmingham Seaholm (SMA) with 252; Ferndale (SMA) with 295; Birmingham Groves (MSA) with 301; Southfield (SMA) with 321; Royal Oak Dondoro (MSA) with 357 and Berkley (SMA) with 399.

West Bloomfield (MSA) did not have enough for a team score.

Rochester's Chad Findley and Mike Wirthlin of Andover both were timed in 15:43 in the boys race but Findley nipped Wirthlin at the wire to take the championship in the 103-finisher field. Sam Blumke of Hazel Park was third in 15:50.

The Rochester girls scored 53 points and Andover was second with 104.

They were followed by Lahser (111); Seaholm (121); West Bloomfield (166); Kimball (168); Adams (187); Berkley (197); Groves (214); Troy (224); Hazel Park (257); Ferndale (301); Athens (320) and Dondoro (391). Lathrup did not have a team score.

Andover star Laura Matson was the first girl across the finish line in 17:58. Kim Moffatt of Rochester was second in 19:11 and Holly Spohn of Lahser was third in 19:39. A total of 86 girls finished.

Here are the top 50 boys finishers and the top 40 girls and their times:

BOYS

1. Chad Findley (Rochester) 15:43; 2. Mike Wirthlin (Andover) 15:43; 3. Sam Blumke (Hazel Park) 15:50; 4. Jim Huff (Lahser) 16:01; 5. Joe Hodson (Rochester) 16:12; 6. Neal DeFord (Lathrup) 16:18; 7. Doug Goudie (Rochester) 16:21; 8. Matt Fogo (Troy) 16:22; 9. Jeff Lemmon (Adams) 16:25.

There was no brotherly love on field

By LINDA SKROK

EAST LANSING — Southfield-Lathrup grads Paul and Terry Bobbitt had more than football on their minds Saturday when Michigan State eked out a 7-3 victory over Western Michigan.

The two brothers, with Paul sporting a Spartan uniform and Terry boasting a Bronco outfit, were battling for family bragging rights.

"I just couldn't go home if my Big Ten team lost to a MAC (Mid-American Conference) team," said Paul, a 6-foot-3, 185-pound junior strong safety for the Spartan defense. "Terry would never let me live it down."

"It was stunned that the score was 0-0 at halftime," said Paul. "I just couldn't believe it."

At the half, Spartan Coach George Perles told his players to tighten their belts and get back out on the field, according to Paul.

"We knew we were a better team on paper," said Paul. "We went into the game with the idea of dominating a MAC school but they came in sky-high."

For Western Michigan, Spartan Stadium packed the third-largest crowd the Bronco's have ever played before with 63,829 fans.

"I think the crowd hyped me for about 10 seconds," said Terry, a fifth-year 5-foot-11, 167-pound senior who is a flanker for Coach Jack Harbaugh's Broncos. "Then I went right back to football and didn't let the crowd worry me."

Terry certainly didn't look worried when Bronco quarterback Chris Conklin hit him with a 20-yard pass at 8:19 in the third quarter to spark Western's only scoring drive.

"We had been setting up that play all day," said Terry about the slant-left pattern that produced his only catch of the game. "Michigan State was biting on it and we hit it. I knew just the second before that I was going to catch it."

Terry, who had caught five passes 50 yards coming into the game, jumped above two defenders to make the grab and then landed just inches inbounds at the Spartans' 46-yard line.

Seven plays later, Michigan State stopped Western Michigan at the 14-yard line and with the Broncos in a fourth-and-two situation, John Creek booted a 31-yard field goal to put the Broncos in the lead at 5:05 in the third quarter.

The Spartans remained scoreless until 3:07 of the fourth quarter when sophomore tailback Lorenzo White ended an 80-yard drive with a one-yard plunge. Chris Caudell kicked the extra point.

"We've relieved that we won," said Paul, who was in on five tackles for the Spartans. "It just goes to show you that everybody puts on his pants one leg at a time. Western was good, but we weren't going to let them in the end zone."

Terry and I never went head to head out on the field," added Paul, "but we did pass each other a few times after a play was over and he said, 'You guys aren't as good as we thought you'd be. We're coming at you.'"

When the game ended, both brothers were laughing and talking all the way to the locker rooms.

"I told Paul that he just got lucky," said Terry.

"The scoreboard tells the story," Paul rebutted. "I know that and Terry knows that."

"It was great to play against each other," commented Terry. "It's been five years since we played at Lathrup and at that time we figured we'd never play side by side again. So this had to be one of those once-in-a-million chances that we ended up going against each other."

"The greatest thing about it," said Paul, "was to look up in the stands and see Mom and Dad up there wearing jerseys that had a WMU No. 21 in the front (Terry's number) and my MSU No. 39 on the back."

Hawks have the world in their hands

By LINDA SKROK

High volleyball coach and Pontiac Catholic softball coach who carried the second-highest batting average on the Hawks team in the World Tournament with a .600 mark.

"We had five or six errors when we lost to Twin Cities and we missed our key hits. We were just overconfident."

In the double-elimination event, the Hawks had a third opportunity to play the Twin Cities and the Hawks were victorious on a 7-2 note to become the first Michigan team ever to win the World Tournament.

"We would have been happy to be in the top five," said Wroubel, reflecting the first-year team's attitude.

The Hawks also had the distinction of placing four players on the All-Tournament team.

Pitcher Maureen Dieters of Rochester, third baseman Sue Schulte of Fraser and outfielder Maria Walter of Lake Orion were named to the honor squad along with tourney MVP Maureen Murphy of Southfield, who played shortstop.

"Mike Bass, our sponsor, just wanted to get a team together," said Wroubel, who described Bass as a recently-retired Waterford resident who likes softball.

"He got some of the girls together and they brought some friends and all of a sudden we looked around and we felt we couldn't have picked an all-star team better," Wroubel remarked.

That could very well be true as the Hawks won not only the World Tournament but also placed in seven out of eight tournaments, winning four Class B qualifiers including the state tourney in Rotunda.

In addition to the tournaments, the Hawks won championships in both Oak Park and Suburban Softball leagues for an overall team record of 63-11-1.

The team, which was coached by Dave Ferguson and Ben Traxler of Rochester, was led in the World Tournament by Southfield's Stephanie Stone with a .727 batting average.

Walter's .522 mark was third. Birmingham Groves grad Sally Burger of Franklin carried a .500 average and Rochester's Rita Snow hit .474.

Player/coach Pam Hardy brought experience to the squad after playing on one of the Little Caesars women's championship teams.

Also on the Hawks squad were Michelle Leith, Mari Lazos and Laura Domar of Waterford; Linda Prill, Troy; Beth Miller, Bloomfield Hills; Lori Weinstein, Southfield, and Kathy Buko, Ferndale.

Tournament victory is a Sacred right

By The Daily Tribune Sports Staff

Down by 10 points early in the fourth quarter, the Bloomfield Hills Academy of the Sacred Heart girls basketball team rallied for a 40-37 victory Saturday over Springfield Christian Academy.

The game was for third place in the Springfield Christian Cup tournament.

Mary Zinkel, a 5-foot-8 senior forward, poured in 14 of her 26 points in the final period to lead the Sacred Heart rally. In that quarter, she canned all six of her foul shots.

"The girls never quit," praised Sacred Heart Coach Marsha Coosaia, whose squad is now 3-2.

Kim White tallied 14 points for Springfield Christian, which fell to 5-3.

On Friday, Colleen Colosire sank 16 points for Bloomfield Hills Kingswood in a 43-24 trouncing of Sacred Heart.

Kingswood jumped out to an 11-5 lead in the first quarter and made it 27-10 at half before the Gazelles matched Kingswood's six points in the third quarter for a 33-16 deficit.

Senior guard Kristi Schenden topped Sacred Heart with nine points while Zinkel added eight points and as many rebounds.

"Kingswood has some pretty big girls and they must have blocked at least six of our shots," said Coosaia.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

See Lions face 49ers

Two tickets to the San Francisco 49ers-Detroit Lions game Sunday, Oct. 20 at the Pontiac Silverdome and $20 are up for grabs in this week's Daily Tribune Football Contest. The champion also will join the Sweet Sixteen competition at the end of the NFL season.

To enter the Contest, simply select the winners of all 20 games listed on the card below.

You must also answer all three questions on the tie-breaker, which asks you to pick the winner of the Monday Night Football game plus the TOTAL number of points which will be scored by halftime and in the final score.

The questions will be used in the order in which they appear to determine the champion. It doesn't matter if you are over or under in your points guesses...just the closest.

You can enter the Football Contest as many times as you like, but only the entry form below or a hand-drawn or typed copy of it will be accepted. Carbon copies and machine copies will be disqualified.

Entry deadline is noon, Saturday.

Send us your entries by mail to Football Contest, The Daily Tribune, 210 East Third, Royal Oak, MI 48067 or drop them off in the Football Contest box in our lobby during business hours, 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8:30 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Trojan runners beat foes

By The Daily Tribune Sports Staff

The sun was shining and the mercury in the thermometer was tickling 70 degrees, so the Clawson cross country teams decided to spend a day at the beach Saturday.

Coach Ron Wright's runners spent part of this past weekend competing in the Metro Invitational at Metro Beach in Harrison Township.

The Clawson boys finished fourth in the 17-team Class B field, while both girls who competed won medals.

A couple of boys also won medals.

Scott St. Andre finished 12th at 17:35 and Tom Downs crossed the line in 17:55, good for 22nd place. Other runners who competed for Clawson were Jim Moses, Robert Griffin, Brian Gregorowicz, Rob Coughlin and Mike Deehan.

Although illness prevented most of the Clawson girls from participating, the two who were at Metro Beach most of their opponents. Donna Wright wound up in 11th place when she finished in 22:11 and Josie Quantrell was only three places and 33 seconds behind her.

He's top receiver in MIAA

Going into this past weekend's games, Alma senior receiver Tony Pattrito from Madison Heights Bishop Foley led the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association in pass receiving by yards and catches with 19 yards for 361 yards in two contests. He also was No. 1 in all-purpose yardage.

Michigan State junior strong safety Paul Bobbitt's goal-line interception of a Notre Dame pass two weekends ago was the first of the Southfield-Lathrup grad's collegiate career. Bobbitt also made five tackles in the 27-10 loss to the Irish.

Michigan Tech senior running back John Magill from Clawson increased his streak of games with at least one pass reception to 14 by grabbing eight aerials for 54 yards in a 55-20 loss two weekends ago to Western Illinois.

Magill also moved into fifth place on Tech's all-time, rushing list with 1,362 yards. He gained 13 yards in two carries, giving him a team-high 206 yards this season, an average of 5.4 per carry. Through the Western Illinois game, Magill had caught 13 passes for 95 yards.

On Saturday, Tech opened Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference play with a 38-24 loss to Northwood Institute. Junior running back Colin Kelly from Royal Oak Shrine scored on a 40-yard run in Northwood's 19-point fourth quarter.

Tech fell to 1-3 overall while Northwood improved to 2-0-1.

Hillsdale inside linebacker Matt Chiodo of Birmingham Brother Rice made 13 solo tackles and assisted on three others, in helping the Chargers get off to a 2-0 start.

The Hillsdale defense gave up just 161 total yards in a 23-7 victory two weekends ago over Ashland (Ohio) and was ranked among the NAIA leaders in defense against the rush before facing Saginaw Valley Saturday. Defending Great Lakes Conference champ Saginaw Valley won its 13th straight league game when the Cardinals dumped Hillsdale 28-17. It was Saginaw Valley's first win this season after three losses.

Grand Valley senior punter Jim Ostrowski from Rice boomed a 71-yarder in the Lakers' 28-14 victory two weekends ago over Evansville.

The win snapped a 14-game losing streak which dated back to Oct. 29, 1983, when Grand Valley nipped GLIAC rival Michigan Tech 36-34.

It also ended an 11-game road skid. Grand Valley last won away from home Oct. 30, 1982, when the Lakers tripped Tech 35-28.

The Lakers made it two in a row Saturday with a 10-7 win over Wayne State in a Great Lakes Conference opener. A 24-yard field goal by Ostrowski in the second quarter snapped a 7-7 tie.

Senior Mike Kavulich from Berkley finished sixth in 25:05.9 in helping the Michigan State men's cross country team win the five-mile Michigan Intercollegiate meet at Forest Akers Golf Course at MSU.

The Spartans had 41 points and were followed by Eastern Michigan (52), Central Michigan (75), Michigan (77) and Western Michigan (86). It was the first time in 11 years that Michigan State had defeated Michigan but U-M's Chris Brewster won the race in 24:32.4.

Campus Report

Oakland Community College freshman Geoff Clendening from Ferndale tied for first place with men's cross country teammate Greg Palardy in the Olivet Invitational. Both were timed in 26:10.

OCC, which was ranked eighth in the nation last season, won the meet with 25 points. Lansing CC was second with 31.

Marty Hagen of Troy Athens ended the Oakland University soccer team's 178-minute scoring drought when he tallied at 64:02 of the second half against Western Michigan off a cross from Mike Vigh.

The goal tied the game and Oakland went on to win 2-1. In its previous contest, Oakland battled to a scoreless tie with Ohio Wesleyan, the No. 8-ranked team in NCAA Division III.

Beth Magee, a senior from Huntington Woods, shot 82-82-85-249 for the Michigan State women's golf team as the Spartans finished second of 15 squads in the Northern Intercollegiate tournament in Ann Arbor. Teammate Lisa Marino was the medalist at 234 including a five-under 71.

For '86: Automakers turn to family cars

By EDWARD MILLER

The 1986 model year debuts Tuesday with renewed focus on family vehicles from Detroit and an unprecedented surge of imports from Europe and the Far East, led by South Korean and Yugoslavian cars.

The dizzying number of nameplates will increase.

Honda will launch a new division, Acura, aimed at the expensive end of the market.

The seven other Japanese exporters will upgrade their product lines, too, now that their government has substantially relaxed the quotas on shipments to the United States.

European carmakers, plagued on their own continent with overcapacity and a sluggish market, will look to America as a place to unload more of their wares.

All of this comes as the American Big Three turn their attention to family vehicles.

The 1985 model year was noted for Detroit's introduction of European-style sports sedans aimed at the image-conscious baby-boomers. Cars such as Chrysler's LeBaron GTS, Ford's Merkur XR4Ti and General Motors' Pontiac Grand Am were aimed at this yuppie audience.

Now, Detroit has followed with upscale family vehicles led by Ford's new midsize Taurus and Mercury Sable, the replacements for the LTD and Marquis.

Cars are growing again, and this time the importers, notably the Japanese, are building them bigger, too. However, the fuel economy gains of past years, while not improving significantly now, will remain largely intact.

The new models will be more expensive, the automakers have warned. The average 1986 car is expected to sell for more than $12,000.

Customers have been ordering optional equipment at an enormous rate for the past two years and Detroit, Tokyo and European carmakers have been more than willing to oblige since that pushes up prices and profit margins.

However, the growing wave of imports and the increasing production space of the domestics, especially General Motors, is expected to bring a full year of cut-rate financing, rebates and other sales gimmicks.

In short, it should be a good year for American buyers to dust off their horse-trading techniques.

The biggest wave of new models will come from GM. New "from roof to road" will be streamlined cars bearing familiar names such as Buick Riviera, Oldsmobile Toronado and Cadillac Seville.

The federal government has demanded a change that will make 1986 cars easy to spot — an additional high-mounted taillight must be placed in the rear center of all cars.

Among the features that will show up on more new models this year are anti-lock braking systems; sequential, multiport fuel injection; gas struts and digital dashboard displays.

In fact, installations of electronic fuel injection systems now outnumber traditional carburetors.

Here's a look at the showroom offerings for 1986.

HYUNDAI

Hyundai Motor Co. of South Korea plans to export 100,000 front-wheel drive Excel sub-compact cars to the United States this fall in two-door and four-door versions.

Hyundai (pronounced HUN'-die) was nurtured in Canada, which exempts Third World countries from its strict auto quota laws.

The company plans to set up its own U.S. dealership network, rather than work through an established American company as the smaller Japanese companies have done. A compact car, called the Stellar, already is planned for 1987 introduction in the United States.

Two other South Korean companies are getting ready to export cars to the United States for the 1987 model year.

YUGO

This car, from the Zastava motor works in Yugoslavia, will be the smallest and cheapest model on the U.S. market. Its $3,990 price tag already has produced waves of publicity.

The Yugo will be the first Eastern European car exported to America in significant numbers in two decades. The importer is Malcolm Bricklin, the former sports car maker who introduced the Subaru brand to America in the 1960s.

The design of the front-wheel drive car resembles an early 1970s Fiat. Like Hyundai, Yugo will be sold through its own franchises. Most if not all franchisees will be existing dealers.

Industry observers say the Yugo's ability to compete may depend on the availability of parts and qualified mechanics to service the car.

AMERICAN MOTORS

New from AMC's Jeep plant this year is the Comanche, a pickup truck built on a Jeep platform. It will come in four-wheel and two-wheel drive and with a four-cylinder or V-6 engine.

AMC's U.S.-made Renault Alliance and Renault Encore subcompacts get new grilles, taillights and dashboards.

The imported Renault Fuego gets a facelift. AMC's French partner, Renault, is ceasing production of its Fuego and AMC is dropping the sports car from its lineup.

CHRYSLER

Chrysler had planned to introduce a new line of upscale subcompacts for 1986 but pushed them back to 1987, so it has no all-new entries.

New Yorker, LeBaron and Omni-Horizon get minor facelifts and the popular Dodge Caravan-Plymouth Voyager minivans remain largely unchanged.

Chrysler will be offering a new engine — a

2.5-liter four-cylinder based on the 2.2-liter that has become the company's workhorse.

FORD

Ford's most expensive car project in history comes to market this fall — the Ford Taurus-Mercury Sable upscale, midsize family sedans and wagons. Ford committed $2.9 billion to the cars five years ago when the auto industry didn't have a lot of money to throw around.

The cars continue the futuristic bubble shape that is becoming a Ford trademark. Ford plans eventually to turn out half a million of these cars a year and use the new front-drive platforms, optional 3-liter, fuel-injected V-6 engines and new four-speed aluminum transmissions as the base for other cars, including at least one in the Lincoln line and perhaps a front-wheel drive minivan.

Taurus and Sable also will have optional heated windshields that can melt ice and snow in two minutes.

Taurus and Sable eventually will replace the rear-drive LTD and Mercury Marquis, although 1986 versions of those standbys will be made for much of the model year.

Ford is bringing up the rear in the compact van competition. Chrysler was first, nearly two years ago, its car-like, front-drive, vehicle creating an immediate hit. GM followed earlier this year with a van that is bigger and more truck-like than Chrysler's.

Ford's Aerostar is in between. Like GM's, it's rear-wheel drive. Ford is expected to advertise the extra towing power that rear-drive provides rather than market the vehicle as a car like Chrysler does.

The Tempo-Topaz compacts get new grilles and, later in the model year, four-wheel drive will be available.

The Ford EXP, a sporty, two-seat version of the subcompact Escort, gets a new, rounder front end.

GENERAL MOTORS

Some old names get all new wheels at GM this year.

The Buick LeSabre and Oldsmobile Delta 88 will share GM's new H body platform. The Buick Riviera and Oldsmobile Toronado will share the E body. All are front-wheel drive and several hundred pounds lighter than the models they replace. They will come in coupe and four-door versions and carry many upscale appointments. V-6 engines and automatic over-drive transmissions will be standard equipment.

The luxury Cadillac Eldorado and Cadillac Seville also have been redesigned.

The Ford and GM moves reflect huge spending on new plants and equipment and both companies plan to continue the big budgets for several more years at least.

The N-car triplets that were new last year — the Pontiac Grand Am, Oldsmobile Calais and Buick Somerset — will also come in four-door versions for 1986.

The Pontiac Fiero, whose plastic body panels lend themselves to quick facelifts, gets a new look on the outside for the third consecutive year — a fastback treatment.

The Chevrolet Nova, a product of the GM-Toyota Motor Corp. joint venture in California, gets a hatchback version.

The Buick Century and Pontiac 6000 A-body cars get new noses.

The Impala name will be dropped, leaving Caprice alone on the Chevrolet large cars.

HONDA

The Honda Accord, the well-appointed subcompact that grew into the compact class, has been totally redesigned for 1986. It's bigger, with a more aerodynamic look.

Half the Accords sold here are made in Marysville, Ohio. The plant has been expanded to include production of the subcompact Civic for 1986.

But the bigger news at Honda is its Acura division, to be launched this fall with a car called the Integra, an upscale sports sedan made in Japan that is aimed at the expensive end of the market.

The next Acura car will be an executive sports sedan that Honda will build in England with Austin-Rover Ltd.

Acura is a separate franchise, but most of the signs are being purchased by Honda dealers.

TOYOTA

The sporty Celica is all new for 1986, becoming front-wheel drive and getting a 16-valve, 2-liter four-cylinder engine. Minor changes will be made to the compact Camry. The Corolla gets a new grille.

OTHER IMPORTS

Mercedes-Benz will have a 16-valve, double overhead cam four-cylinder engine available on its 190 sports sedan.

Volvo will import a two-door luxury sedan, called the 780. It is expected to be the company's most expensive model.

BMW is expected to bring out convertible versions of its 325e sports sedan.

Isuzu has converted its I-Mark car to front-wheel drive. The same car is sold by Chevrolet dealers as the Spectrum.

Mazda's GLC subcompact is to be restyled. Nissan will significantly step up production of Sentra subcompact cars in Tennessee.
